Girls win again!

Pretty Jo Lynn DeBuyscher, poised read to bat, is symbolic of why Romulus' elected male officials and staff again fell victims to the females who work for them in a benefit baseball game for muscular dystrophy last Wednesday at Elmer Johnson City Park. Although it was a closely contested game, the girls beat out their bosses 13-12 in seven innings. A total of $90 was collected during the game to aid victims of muscular dystrophy. Mrs. DeBuyscher works in the city assessor's office. (Photo by Jay Young, Romulus public information officer.)

Fireworks too

Parade set for July 4th in Romulus

Romulus residents are expected to turn out Tuesday in large numbers for the city's fourth annual July 4th parade, picnic and fireworks display on that historic date.

Staging for the parade will be held from 10 a.m. until noon in the parking lot of the city hall, with the parade scheduled to begin at noon, according to Jay Young, public information officer.

As in past years, the parade will travel west on Goddard Road to Five Points where participants will fall out to take part in the picnic at Elmer Johnson City Park.

Young said the public is invited to bring lunches, chairs, blankets, games and whatever else they desire to have a good time at the picnic. Refreshments will be sold by several city clubs and organizations.

A special treat for adults and children alike will take place once darkness sets in when $2,500 worth of fireworks will go up in smoke. The display will be conducted by Bill Richardson.

Reroute signs fuel controversy

Huron Twp., county feud over sand trucks

Huron Township and the Wayne County Road Commission are deadlocked in a struggle over traffic control of huge trucks hauling sand for the Detroit Edison Co.

The township contends the vehicles are dangerous to urban areas and area motorists on its route through Huron Township.

Between 80 to 100 trucks of the M & B Contracting Company of Novi are hauling sand from Sumpter Township to Monroe for Detroit Edison, according to John Puskar, supervisor.

He stressed that the route which the trucks take jeopardizes pedestrians and motorists alike in the community of Waltz and on the entire round trip from Sumpter to Monroe and back.

According to Puskar and Sandra Rhodes, township clerk, the caravan of trucks passing each other going in opposite directions cause dangerous traffic conditions to area motorists and children.

After the township put up signs rerouting the empty northbound trucks, the trucking firm filed suit in Wayne County Circuit Court recently.

Judge Horace Gilmore last month ruled Huron Township had the right to erect temporary signs rerouting the traffic over a 90-day period.

Clerk Rhodes said the temporary signs forbid trucks of over three axles to travel on Waltz Road. To back up the judge's order, Police Chief John Carney assigned a squad car to patrol the truck route in the township to enforce its provisions.

Since the judge's ruling, the Wayne County Road Commission has told Huron Township that it will physically take down the temporary signs and a tug-of-war has developed between the two bodies of government.

Although a phone call from the Road Commission as late as Friday afternoon threatened again to remove the signs, Chief Carney Monday morning said nothing had happened. But, an early morning call Monday from the Road Commission instructed him it would begin taking the signs down at 10 a.m., setting up the chances for a physical confrontation. A later call informed the township that the commission would hold off until after the meeting.

Chief Carney said Monday he would meet with the Road Commission in an attempt to iron out the knotty situation. Also attending the afternoon session were Puskar, Rhodes, Trustee A. J. Haener, and the township attorney.

Departments merger sought

Late budget axed

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

Not one spectator was present Friday afternoon as Romulus City Council took preliminary steps to whittle four departments down to two and again delayed adoption of an already five-week late city budget for the 1978-79 fiscal year.

The special session was called for 4:30 p.m. Friday following last Tuesday's regular council meeting and was posted in city hall.

Up slightly from last year, the new budget when adopted is anticipated to be about $10 million, according to Larry Moore, finance director.

Council members Friday want to combine the position of industrial coordinator and grants department head into a single job classification. They also agreed that to merge the ordinance department and the animal control department into one unit was a good idea.

Consensus opinion brought out in discussion was that since both animal control and ordinance officers were out on the road in their respective jobs, they could do both at the same time.

To accomplish this objective, however, would result in the termination of two members of the ordinance department.

Also discussed was the salary increases for non-union city employees with the result that previously presented lower pay boots were given approval over those recommended later with a higher percentage rate.

A special committee of council members, Mrs. Beverly McAnally, Mrs. Mary Carter and Jerry Canejo was named to study the salary hikes and recommended the lower increases. Subsequent higher boosts were suggested by other council members, but the earlier committee proposals prevailed Friday.

None of the measures will go into effect until approved with the budget.

Final adoption of next fiscal year's budget was expected at yesterday's regularly scheduled council meeting.

Under Section 9.4 of the city charter, the city budget each year is supposed to be adopted on or before 45 days before the end of the fiscal year, June 30, or about May 15.

If council approved the budget yesterday, Moore said no major problems would occur and payrolls would go on as usual.

Last year, a lawsuit was filed against the city when council delayed budget adoption and no money was on hand to meet the city payroll.

Trouton Drain problem gets action

Through efforts of State Rep. Edward E. Mahalak (D-Romulus), official action is being taken to correct unsatisfactory conditions in the Trouton Drain.

The action follows numerous complaints in recent months by local residents and Romulus city officials of foul water and odors in the drain.

Mahalak brought the situation to the attention of the Department of Natural Resources and the Department of Public Health, and called a meeting in Romulus late in May to bring together representatives of the departments, local citizens and city officials to discuss the matter.

There followed staff investigations by the Department of Natural Resources, which included water samples at locations between Van Born and Joan roads.

The State of Michigan Water Quality Standards people are in the process of taking some significant steps in correcting the situation at the Trouton Drain, Mahalak said.

He said that septic tank discharges have been found along the Trouton Drain and actions are being taken to correct this situation.

The investigations showed that the largest impact on the water quality in the drain is from contaminated groundwater feeding the drain from the property of Chemical Recovery Systems, he explained.

According to Mahalak, the contamination problem has been referred to the Environmental Enforcement Division, which is reviewing it with the state attorney general's office for formal enforcement action.

The Department of Natural Resources is working with the city of Romulus in other alternate solutions to correct the problems. The attorney general has informally determined that action can be taken by the state of Michigan to correct the problems that affect the residents along the Trouton Drain, Mahalak said.

He said the investigation showed that Chemical Recovery Systems has failed to operate in accordance with the requirements and limitations of its permit issued by the Water Resources Commission.

Meanwhile, Mahalak reported, action is being taken to eliminate sources of contamination, clean out the drain and improve its water quality. "We are on our way now to correcting a very unsavory situation," he said.

Mahalak met personally recently with Dr. Howard A. Tanner, director of the Department of Natural Resources, to discuss ways to speed up action to correct the problems with the drain.

The Department of Natural Resources has suggested as another alternative that a task force be appointed to inspect every inch of the affected area of the Trouton Drain and that a new permit be issued to comply with Act 245, P. A. 1929, as amended, to insure that future problems with the drain will not occur.

Pepsi-Cola warehouse takes shape

The new $1.5 million Pepsi-Cola warehouse a block west of Middlebelt Road on the south side of Van Born Road in Romulus is rapidly taking shape as workmen labor to complete the structure by late August. Located on 10 acres of land, the 88,000 square foot building will contain warehouse storage space and administrative offices. The new warehouse will store returnable bottles whose numbers are expected to vastly increase once the state ban on throwaway bottles goes into effect. (Photo by Tom Greenwood, ANP staff photographer.)

In the armed forces

Currie participates in NATO's Dawn Patrol

Naval Aviation Structural Mechanic 2.c. David R. Currie, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Currie of Hanna Road, Romulus, recently participated in the major NATO exercise Dawn Patrol '78 in the Mediterranean Sea. He is assigned to Attack Squadron 83, based at Cecil Field Naval Air Station, Jacksonville, Fla.

Dawn Patrol is an annual exercise, designed to promote improved coordination of multi-national forces and to demonstrate the capacity of NATO forces to rapidly reinforce southern Europe.

A 1974 graduate of Romulus Senior High School, Currie joined in April 1975.

Also in the armed forces: Airman Charles R. Chessor, the son of Mrs. Lillie M. Guyot of King Road, Romulus, is a member of a Grissom Air Force Base, Ind., unit which has received the Strategic Air Command's General Bruce K. Holloway Humanitarian Award for rescuing stranded motorists during two crippling blizzards and for sponsoring a summer youth encampment.

Airman Chessor is an airlift-bombardment aircraft maintenance specialist with Grissom's 305th Air Refueling Wing.

According to the nominating letter, Grissom airmen manned wreckers and four-wheel vehicles to pull semi-trucks and cars from highway U.S. 31 after 50 mph winds brought wind chill temperatures down to minus 70 degrees and stacked snow drifts five feet tall.

During the first 1977 winter storm, Jan. 26-30, the base housed more than 60 stranded motorists a day.

In addition to clearing the base, Grissom civil engineers cleared more than 150 miles of off-base roads and a local airport.

Severe weather hit the local area again Dec. 9-11. Grissom repeated the emergency tactics. This time, more than 900 vehicle assists were added to the record along with 100 grocery deliveries and five hospital runs, the nominating letter stated.

The airman is a 1976 graduate of Woodhaven High School.

An official at Sheppard Air Force Base, Tex., has announced the graduation of Airman Ricky L. Wilson from the U.S. Air Force's corrosion control specialist course conducted by the Air Training Command.

Airman Wilson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wilson of Harrison, Romulus, now is trained to identify corrosion and apply preservative treatment to metal surfaces, and will serve at Shaw Air Force Base, S.C. Completion of the course earned him individual credits towards an associate in applied science degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman attended Romulus High School.

Sgts. Roy L. and Pamela E. Winfrey, a husband and wife team, now are serving with Pacific Air Force units at Clark Air Base, Philippines.

Roy, a refrigeration and air conditioning specialist, was previously assigned at Randolph Air Force Base, Tex. He is the son of Elmond Winfrey of Forrest City, Ark. His mother is Mrs. Ophelia Winfrey of Colt, Ark. The sergeant is a 1971 graduate of Forrest City Senior High School.

Pamela, a dental specialist, previously was assigned at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex. Her mother, Mrs. Irene Leabu, resides in Hastings, Mich., and her father, Charles Leabu, resides in Romulus. She is a 1971 graduate of West Senior High School in Garden City.

Airman Charles R. Chessor, the son of Mrs. Lillie M. Guyot of King Road, Romulus, is a member of a Grissom Air Force Base, Ind., unit which has received the Strategic Air Command's General Bruce K. Holloway Humanitarian Award for rescuing stranded motorists during two crippling blizzards and for sponsoring a summer youth encampment.

stacked snow drifts five feet tall. The winds kept visibility near zero and buried many of the 200 stranded vehicles within minutes.

During the first 1977 winter storm, Jan. 26-30, the base housed more than 60 stranded motorists a day. Airmen voluntarily worked in the Noncommissioned Officers and Officers Clubs cooking and serving more than 300 meals. Cots were loaned to community shelters.

Grissom also hosted a youth encampment for 160 economically and socially deprived youths from three counties surrounding the base. The program included picnics, rap sessions, an adoption night when members invited youths to their homes for dinner and recreational activities.

The airman is a 1976 graduate of Woodhaven High School. His father, Charles W. Chessor, resides in Ecorse, Mich.

Hawaii trip offers EMU credit

What could be more pleasant than to earn two college credits while visiting an island paradise?

But that's just the opportunity that graduate students will have during Eastern Michigan University's Workshop in Multi-Ethnic Education to be held in Hawaii Aug. 7-16.

The purpose of the course is to provide graduate students with an opportunity to study a multi-ethnic society and the resulting curriculum priorities. The workshop will focus on man and man's relationship to fellow man within the physical and economic environment of Hawaii.

The director of the program is Dr. Juanita Garfield, associate professor of curriculum and instruction at EMU. Consultant service will be provided by Dr. Virgie Chattergy of the University of Hawaii and guest speakers from the Honolulu area.

The workshop will include lectures, group discussions, visits to cultural centers and schools, workshops in folk arts and ethnic foods and opportunities to explore on an individual basis.

The workshop will be headquartered in Honolulu with class sessions meeting in the East-West Center and/or the University Campus Center. Hotel accommodations will be in the Waikiki Beach area with bus service provided.

Tentatively scheduled visits include a Polynesian cultural center, the Royal Hawaiian Art Gallery, public and private school sites, Bishop Museum, religious sites and the Hawaiian Department of Education.

The workshop is open to Eastern Michigan University students, guest students from other institutions and qualified adults.

The cost is $850, based on a minimum of 25 participants, and includes tuition for two credit hours, round trip air fare, room, all scheduled visits including transportation, transfers from airport to hotel, one-half day sight seeing tour, luggage handling, Lei greeting and taxes.

Not included in the base price are meals, independent travel, personal items and textbooks.

For further information of an application, call the Office of International Studies at Eastern at (313) 487-2424.

For low, moderate incomes

State offers loans, grants for home improvements

State Rep. Edward E. Mahalak (D - Romulus) has announced that, through action by the Legislature, the Michigan State Housing Development Authority is now offering low-interest home improvement loans, home improvement deferred payment loans and grants.

The loans are available to low and moderate income homeowners with an annual gross income of less than $17,830.

The property must be 20 years old or older, or in need of repair to correct damage caused by a natural disaster or to correct items that are hazardous to health and safety, or for items directly related to energy conservation, Mahalak said.

Applicants must be Michigan residents and reasonable credit risks. The improvements must be completed within six months of the date of the loan.

Maximum loans available are $15,000 for single family homes or $5,000 per dwelling unit for multiple dwelling properties.

According to Mahalak, residential property may be improved to comply with ordinances or to make the property more liveable or usable. Such energy conservation improvements as insulation and storm windows are strongly encouraged, he said.

However, Mahalak added, such improvements as garages, driveways, landscaping, patios, decks, fences and fireplaces are not eligible for the loans.

Interested homeowners can obtain additional information by visiting a local lender participating in the State Housing Development Authority home improvement program or by contacting the authority in care of Post Office Box 30044, Lansing, Mich. 48909.

Student airs gripes to board

A ninth-grade student in the Romulus school system can now be numbered among the numerous residents who complain to the school board about things that are not to their liking.

On June 14, the Romulus school board received a letter from Caroline Durham, who attends South Jr. High School. It read:

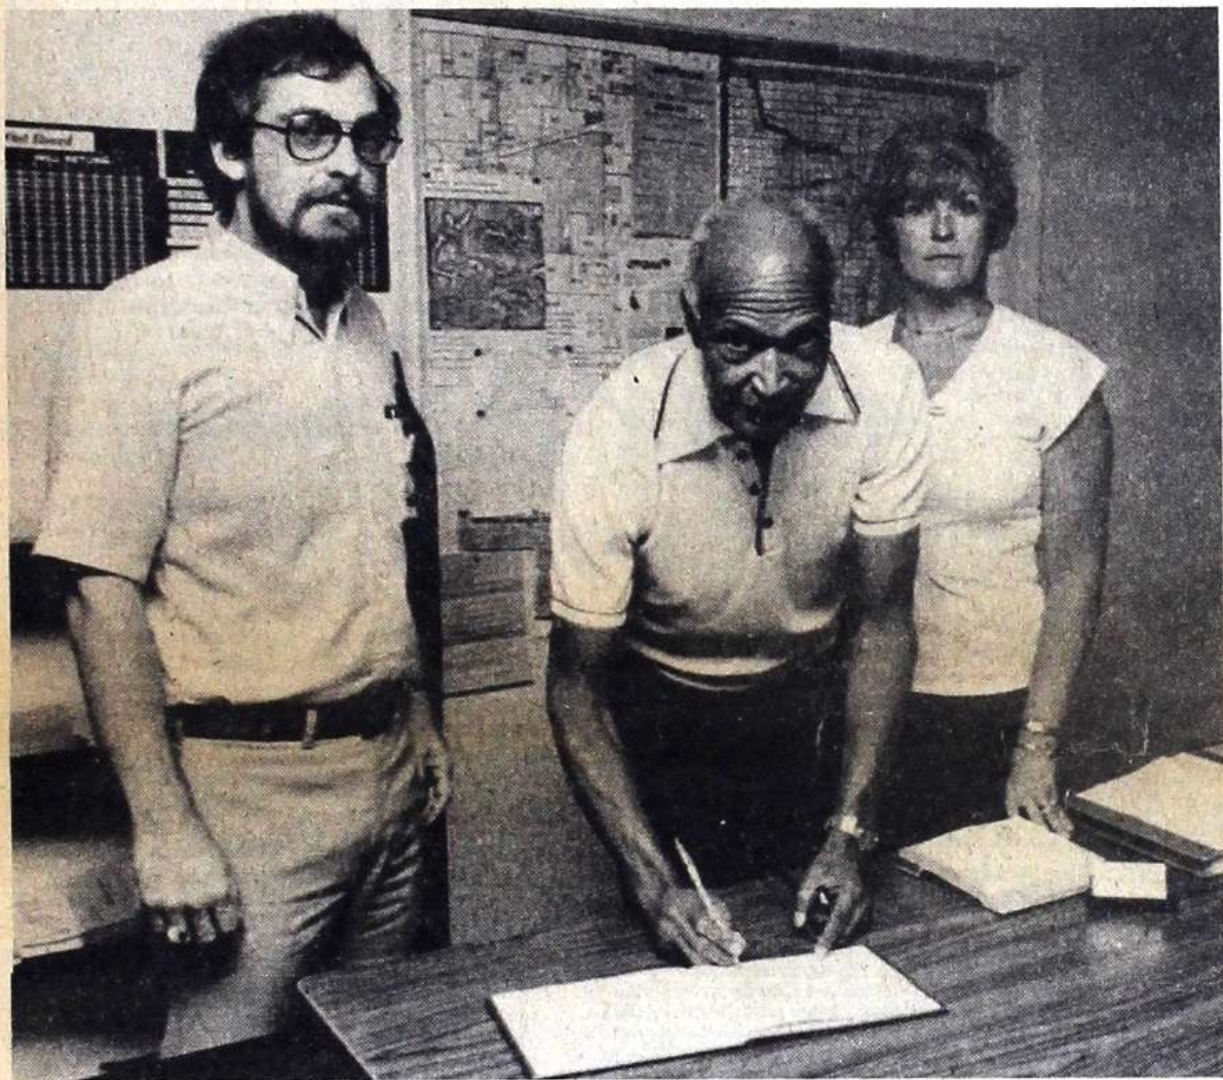

"Dear Sirs,
I am one of many students of Romulus South Junior High School, in the 9th grade. I am writing to you because I don't think it is fair the way the different schools are treated. The North Jr. High has all new equipment, the Senior High has equipment that the North and South Jr. Highs don't have, the South Jr. High gets the left-overs from the High School. There are sewing machines that don't work half of the time, there are cockroaches and other bugs in the school. Once there was a cockroach that was two inches long that I saw. The school should call a exterminator to do away with all of the cock-roaches and bugs. I was wondering if there could be something done about these things. Me and a lot of other kids would appreciate it very much. Another thing, the sink in the girl's bathroom does not work at all at the South Jr. High School.

Sincerely yours,
Caroline Durham"

The school board was expected to take her complaint under consideration Tuesday night.

Help Center celebrates

Earl Lamb (center), president of the Romulus Help Center board of directors, signs guest register at the organization's open house recently while Leonard Melnick, director, and Donna Lee Zavitz, of the Romulus Recreation Department, look on. Now in its fifth year, the center provides counseling for persons of all ages with personal and drug-related problems, offers homemaker services to senior citizens at home, administers loan program with the city for rehabilitation of houses to comply with minimum housing codes and provides job placement services. The center is funded by city, county, state and federal funds.

Romulus native retires

Gerald Dugan, formerly of Romulus, accepts retirement certificate recently from Brig. Gen. Rudolph Bartholomew, commander of the 127th Tactical Fighter Wing (ANG), Selfridge ANG Base, Mich. A 1940 graduate of Romulus High School, Dugan served as a machinist with the Michigan Air National Guard. He and his twin brother, Harold, enlisted together in the U. S. Navy in 1942 during the second World War. Dugan and his wife now reside in Romeo, Mich.

In Brief

Richardson retires

Owen Richardson, building department inspector for the city of Romulus, was honored Thursday upon his retirement after 18 years of service.

Friends and well-wishers paid tribute to Richardson with a retirement dinner at the Harbor House Restaurant in Riverview.

He was first employed by the city May 18, 1960 and his retirement will become effective Friday, June 30.

Seniors safeguarded

Two Romulus women are providing a valuable service to senior citizens — making telephone calls at specified times of the day to check on their physical health and care.

Working out of the Romulus Recreation Department for the Wayne County Office on Aging, Mrs. Margaret Tubbs and Mrs. Evelyn Rapanowski make telephone calls to seniors who request the special service.

Should the call uncover an emergency situation, the senior citizen's relatives and doctor are called immediately. The calling service is designed to give quick medical service to victims of falls, strokes or other sudden illnesses who live alone.

Other services arranged by Mrs. Tubbs and Mrs. Rapanowski include: help with transportation, hot lunches at home, trip planning, job placement, special day care and assistance with minor house repairs.

Seniors wanting to enroll in the telephone program or other services are asked to call 941-0666, extension 69.

Voter deadline set

Voters in the Romulus-Belleville area are reminded that Monday, July 10, is the last day to register for the Aug. 8 primary election in their respective communities.

Voters will be able to register between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. in the cities of Romulus and Belleville and the townships of Huron, Sumpter and Van Buren, according to clerk's offices in those communities.

Council meet changed

The regular meeting of the Romulus City Council scheduled for July 4, 1978, will be changed to Wednesday, July 5, because of the Fourth of July holiday, according to City Clerk Leonard J. Polmar.

Old Morris residence honored

Mrs. Pearl Morris (in chair) accepts plaque from Romulus Council President Mary Ann Banks which designates her house (in background) as a local historical site. Andrew Miller (second from left) holds certificate also presented to Mrs. Morris which lists her residence at 13880 Huron River Dr. on the Michigan State Historical Register. Miller is a member of the Michigan Historical Commission. The presentations, which were made on Heritage Day during the recent Michigan Week observance in Romulus, was also attended by Mrs. Helen Hay (second from right) and Carl Morris (right), sister and brother of Mrs. Morris. Morris served on the Romulus school board for 28 years and is now a member of the Wayne County Intermediate School Board. (Photo by Tom Greenwood, ANP staff photographer.)

Offbeat Michigan

Why not tour state's public harbors?

(Note: "Harbor Hopping" is the fifth in a series of 15 weekly articles on "Offbeat Michigan." These features are designed to encourage Michigan tourism and near-home travel.)

For an offbeat weekend with a maritime bent, set course by car for a tour of Michigan's public harbors.

Harbor Hopping near cities with 1,000 or more population has become a favorite pastime for generations of Michiganders. Boardwalk strolls past lakeside restaurants and craft from rowboats to ocean-going yachts, or through a port bustling with sleek sail craft on the eve of a big race, will excite the most confirmed landlubber. Most also host thousands of anglers offer trout and salmon in spring and fall and perch in summer. All are accessible by auto and beaches or picnic areas near most make them perfect stops to while away a summer's day.

Many of the 39 State Waterways Commission-sponsored harbors Auto Club lists near cities with 1,000 or more population offer nearby hotels, motels or campgrounds, or feature parks with beaches and picnic grounds. Most also allow fishing at pierside.

Charlevoix's port is just one of eight in the state hosting waterborne festivals. The July 27-30 Venetian Festival there features craft resplendent with lights in an evening parade. Escanaba's Aug. 2 Venetian Night boat parade is preceded by a band concert. Grand Haven schedules two big events—a Venetian parade Aug. 26 and the July 30-Aug. 6 Coast Guard Festival.

Marquette's city harbor glitters with lighted craft for the evening Blessing of the Fleet July 4, while Gladstone holds its Memorial of the Sailors at its dock each Memorial Day. Rogers City's Nautical Festival is scheduled Aug. 3-6.

A carnival and fireworks enliven Elk Rapids' port during Harbor Days July 20-22. Ontonagon's Summer Festival over Labor Day Weekend has a boat parade.

While St. Ignace's harbor attracts visitors over the July Fourth holidays with a dockside boat and antique auto show, the lure of Great Lakes fishing brings thousands of anglers to many other ports annually. Breakwalls and piers or charter boats at New Buffalo, St. Joseph, Muskegon and Manistee along Lake Michigan and Alpena and Cheboygan along Lake Huron offer salmon in fall and steelhead in spring.

Summer perch anglers can board party boats operating opposite South Haven's marina in Lake Michigan or at the East Tawas pier jutting 2,400 feet into Lake Huron's Tawas Bay, the longest wooden maritime structure in the state. Others can tackle Lake Erie's perch from shore or launch their own craft at Bolles Harbor near Monroe.

For a view of everything from runabouts to mahogany and teak cabin cruisers, stroll through St. Clair's public marina on the Pine River. Berths are just a few steps from the St. Clair River and the world's longest freshwater boardwalk linking the Voyageur Restaurant and St. Clair Inn. Benches along the 2,000-foot promenade offer close-up views of freighters on one of the world's busiest waterways.

Shipwatchers also can stop at the tiny Detroit River facility at Wyandotte's Bishop Park. That harbor and Upper Michigan's L'Anse marina are the smallest listed by Auto Club, with four berths each.

Largest harbor for transient boaters is the 195-slip facility at the metro-park marina near Mount Clemens, hosting the world's biggest in-water boat shows Sept. 28-Oct. 1 and Oct. 5-8. Boat viewing along the Black Creek and nearby Clinton River is excellent any summer weekend.

To capture the excitement of a harbor in a pre-race mood, visit Port Huron's Black River marina. The fastest sailing craft in the Midwest gather there for the July 15 Port Huron-Mackinac race. From July 14-16, Menominee's harbor fills with craft piloted by Explorer and Mariner Scouts for the in-port Bay Jammer sailing series.

Harbors are part of waterfront parks at eight cities.

Traverse City's cock is part of the Clinch Park, while a sulphurous spring is a focal point for Frankfort's facility. Playgrounds and picnic areas also encircle docks at Sault Ste. Marie, Manistique, East Jordan, Boyne City and Harbor Beach. A picnic area adjacent to Detroit's Memorial Park marina is perfect for viewing the mammoth July Fourth Detroit River fireworks display and boat watching.

Three harbors have nearby tourist attractions of historic or religious importance. The Quincy Mine Hoist is a half-mile from Houghton-Hancock's marina on Lake Superior and is among Upper Michigan's best-known tourist spots. It is the largest steam-powered hoist ever built and operated from 1920 to 1931.

Leland's harbor, with its weathered New England-style shanties, is a local historic area north of Traverse City.

Petoskey is the jumping-off point for divers visiting the Scuba Divers' Shrine at the bottom of Little Traverse Bay. That harbor and one to the north at Harbor Springs are part of Michigan's Riviera, where the rich moor giant yachts up to 75 feet long.

For views of unmatched natural phenomena, board a tour boat at Munising's port for daily 37-mile trips past Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore.

Picturesque Black River harbor near Ironwood is the terminus of the 17-mile Black River Drive, winding through dense Upper Peninsula forest and offering nature trails to eight waterfalls 25 to 40 feet high.

SUFFERING NEEDLESSLY?

Millions are turning to chiropractic because they are recognizing the scientific principles of nature that have made spinal adjustments effective for many conditions where other methods have failed.

The chart below shows the lateral view of the spinal column and indicates in section "A" names of the spinal nerves as they branch from the spinal cord and exit through openings between the vertebrae. All tissues, glands and organs supplied with life energy by these nerves are shown in the section marked "B" in the chart. The section marked "C" describes a partial list of the conditions and symptoms that can result when there is an absence of life in the nerves.

A. Area Supplied by Nerves

Blood supply to the head, the pituitary gland, the scalp, bones of the face, the brain itself, inner and middle ear, the sympathetic nervous system.

Eyes, optic nerve, auditory nerve, sinuses, mastoid bones, tongue, forehead.

Cheeks, outer ear, face bones, teeth, trifacial nerve.

Nose, lips, mouth, eustachian tube.

Vocal cords, neck glands, pharynx.

Neck muscles, shoulders, tonsils.

Thyroid gland, hulse in the shoulders, the elbow.

Arms from the elbows down, including the hands, wrists and fingers, also the esophagus and trachea.

Heart including its valves, and covering, also coronary arteries.

Lungs, bronchial tubes, pleura, chest, breast, nipples.

Gall bladder and common duct.

Liver, solar plexus, blood.

Stomach.

Pancreas, islands of Langerhans, duodenum.

Spleen, diaphragm.

Adrenals or supra-renal.

Kidneys.

Kidneys, ureters.

Small intestines or colon, inguinal rings.

Large intestines or colon, inguinal rings.

Appendix, abdomen, upper leg, coccyum.

Sex organs, ovaries or testicles, uterus, bladder, knees.

Prostate gland, muscles of the lower back, sciatic nerve.

Lower legs, ankle, feet, toes, arches.

Hip bones, buttocks.

A Side View of Spine

C. Result of Nerve Involvement

Headaches, nervousness, insomnia, head colds, high blood pressure, migraine headaches, mental conditions, nervous breakdowns, amnesia, epilepsy, infantile paralysis, sleeping sickness, chronic tiredness, dizziness or vertigo, St. Vitus dance.

Sinus trouble, allergies, crossed eyes, deafness, cataracts, eye troubles, earache, fainting spells, certain cases of blindness.

Neuralgia, neuritis, acne or pimples, eczema.

Hay fever, rose fever, etc., catarrh, hard of hearing, adenoids.

Laryngitis, hoarseness, throat conditions like a sore throat, quinsy, etc.

Stiff neck, pain in upper arm, tonsillitis, whooping cough, croup.

Bursitis, colds, thyroid conditions, goiter.

Asthma, cough, difficult breathing, shortness of breath, pain in lower arms and hands.

Functional heart conditions and certain chest pain.

Bronchitis, pleurisy, pneumonia, congestion, influenza, grippe.

Gall bladder conditions, jaundice, shingles.

Liver conditions, fever, low blood pressure, anemia, poor circulation, arthritis.

Stomach troubles including nervous stomach, indigestion, heart burn, dyspepsia, etc.

Diabetes, ulcers, gastritis.

Stomach troubles, hiccoughs.

Allergies, hives.

Kidney troubles, hardening of the arteries, chronic tiredness, nephritis, pyelitis.

Skin conditions like acne, or pimples, eczema, boils, etc., auto-intoxication.

Rheumatism, gas pains, certain types of sterility.

Constipation, colitis, dysentery, diarrhea, ruptures or hernias.

Appendicitis, cramps, difficult breathing, acidosis, varicose veins.

Bladder troubles, many knee pains.

Sciatica, lumbago, difficult, painful or too frequent urination, backaches.

Poor circulation in the legs, swollen ankles, weak ankles and arches, cold feet, weakness in the legs, leg cramps.

Sporadic condition, spinal curvatures.

Hemorrhoids or piles, pruritus or itching, pain at end of spine on sitting.

SPINAL NERVE INVOLVEMENT CAUSES MANY CONDITIONS

The spinal chart shown above is directed especially to those people who have tried to regain their health through methods other than chiropractic, and have failed. That failure should not lead to discouragement, but to greater determination to discover the fundamental cause of all disease.

Since the discovery of chiropractic, no one needs to feel that he or she is destined to be sick all their life. Remember, "Where there is life there is hope and he who has hope has everything."

Beef Industry Commission sponsors cook-off contest

Amateur chefs who enjoy competition in the kitchen should ready themselves for the 1978 Beef Cook-Off Contest, sponsored by the Michigan Beef Industry Commission.

Contest finals will be held Aug. 29 at the Michigan State Fair. The winner will represent Michigan at the national finals, to be held in early September in Oklahoma City, Okla.

According to Retha Hankey, home economist for the Michigan Beef Industry Commission, the contest is designed to stimulate creation of beef recipes utilizing chuck, round, rump, or fresh brisket cuts of beef.

"It seems consumers always are looking for different ways to prepare America's No. 1 entree-beef," Hankey said. "Besides discovering new recipes, we are hoping to educate consumers about preparation of these various cuts of beef. Certain cuts must be treated differently from others because of many factors including texture, tenderness and fat content."

To be eligible, contestants must be 18 years or older, and they cannot have a professional status within the food industry. Beef dishes must contain a minimum of two pounds of beef and not more than five pounds. Recipes will be judged on the basis of taste, appearance, originality, ease of preparation and practicality. Recipes should be original and contain no other meat product.

First prize for the Michigan winner will be an all-expense paid trip for two to the National Beef Cook-Off, along with a basket of what else—beef steaks. Top prize for the national contest is $1,500 with cash prizes for eight other top places.

Both the state and national Beef Cook-Off contests are different from most cooking contests because they operated at a grassroots level without commercial sponsorship.

HCMA metroparks have overnight canoe stop-offs

One of the most popular routes for canoeing in southeastern Michigan is along the Huron River, which covers more than 100 miles from southwest of Pontiac to Lake Erie.

The Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority has three canoe overnight campsites along the river, designed primarily for organized groups, individuals or families on canoe trips.

Fees for the sites cost $1 per canoe per night, with a maximum of $5 nightly. Metropark vehicle permits — $1 daily, $5 annually or $1 for senior citizens — as well as adult supervision, also are required.

The campsite permits are available at Kensington, Hudson Mills and Lower Huron metroparks.

The canoe campsites in Kensington Metropark are located along the river in the group campsite area. There is no canoe rental service, however, liveries are located nearby. Contact the park office at 685-1561 (Milford) for further information.

Canoe campsites at Hudson Mills Metropark are located along the river just below North Territorial Road. Rental service for that park and nearby Delhi Metropark is handled by Skip's Huron River Canoe Livery, located in the latter park.

Rates for Hudson Mills to Delhi is $10.50 and $6.50 from Dexter to Delhi, both plus deposit. Weekend rentals require advanced registration.

Contact Skip's at 769-8686 or the Huron Mills park office at 426-8211 (Dexter).

Canoe campsites at Lower Huron Metropark are located one mile below South Metropolitan Parkway. There is no rental service, however, liveries are located in the area.

The authority also publishes a free Huron River canoe map.

The map, covering the 101-mile stretch of the Huron River from Proud Lake in Oakland County to its mouth at Lake Erie in Wayne County, is divided into four sections — Proud Lake State Recreation Area to Kensington Metropark, Kensington Metropark to the Village of Dexter, Dexter to the City of Belleville and Belleville to Lake Erie.

Designed by Graphic Artist Michael S. Broad, the maps show public canoe campsites, launching and parking areas, portages, canoe liveries, road crossings and other orientation points. A chart denotes mileage and travel time between major points of interest, with a complete trip estimated at 42 hours.

The Huron River canoe Map is available at the park offices of Kensington near Milford, Hudson Mills near Dexter and Lower Huron near Belleville and HCMA Detroit Office.

To obtain a copy by mail, send your name and address and 20 cents in coin or postage to Huron River Canoe Map, Dept. AN, c/o Metroparks, 3050 Penobscot Building, Detroit 48226.

Editorial opinions

Tax revamping urged

With the growing movement among Michigan residents to join the ranks of citizens supporting tax reform, local officials are taking a new look at government spending and any possible areas where that spending may be reduced or even eliminated.

In the wake of California's adoption of Proposal 13, or the Jarvis-Gann amendment, elected officials across the nation either are attempting to head-off similar measures in their states or for the first time are seriously listening to the disgruntled taxpayer whose pleas, until now, have fallen on deaf ears.

We have said in the past that it seemed just a little strange that elected officials have waited until now to recognize the real problems being faced by their constituents. Probably, most of those officials felt that they knew what really was best for the citizens, and with the exception of a few dissident taxpayers, that approach seemed to work well for them.

But not any more. Few examples of government excess hit home as well as the example cited by Taxpayers United for Tax Limitation, the Southfield-based group which has been stumping the state for support of their tax limitation proposal which they hoped to have on this November's ballot.

That example showed that state and local taxes have increased 2½ times faster than the income of Michigan citizens. State spending increased by 800 percent while personal income increased only 180 percent over the past 10 years.

During that same period of time, the number of state employees has increased by 50 percent while the state's population increased only 6.7 percent.

Is it any wonder then that the citizens of Michigan have finally decided that they have had enough.

For too long the elected leaders of Michigan used the state treasury for their own political purposes. Initiating new special interest laws any time they thought there may be some political advantage from such legislation.

Almost daily, new departments and or agencies were proposed by Lansing lawmakers, more for the public relations value than the potential worth to Michigan citizens.

In short, we feel that elected officials have lacked accountability for too long, and the current rash of tax limitation and tax cut-back proposals, should go a long way toward reminding them of their responsibility to all of the people of this state.

It should be pointed out that Western Wayne County has been fortunate in selecting representatives of quality who have for the most part, placed the welfare of all the citizens before special interest groups. But with the high pressure, special interest lobbyists in Lansing always working to promote their own special legislation, it often is difficult for any elected leader to resist or reject the benefits which go along with cooperating with them.

Therefore, it is essential that the taxpayers of the state remove from the legislature's control, the blank check which it has held for so many years and force the return of state budgeting, which is based on a limited amount of state income, as opposed to current practices of simply heaping on new taxes as new programs are started.

It is not enough for the governor of the state to simply study current tax proposals while withholding comment on the necessity for such proposals.

It is time for the State Legislature to take the lead. Few residents of Michigan would argue the fact that taxes have gone beyond the point of good sense or fair play. The Lansing lawmakers are just as aware of that fact as the hard pressed Michigan citizen who has been forced to tighten his belt while government spending continued to increase.

We urge state lawmakers to provide the leadership which they were elected to provide.

Now is the time to act on revamping the state's tax structure. To return government to the role of assisting the citizens of the state as opposed to shackling them to the yoke of excessive taxation.

Worst is yet to come

"The worst is yet to come, Much worse".

That's the way Haynes Johnson, The Washington Post's distinguished Pulitzer Prize-winning essayist, describes what's in store for the American people in the months and years ahead by way of taxes.

Johnson notes, of course, that the present administration continues to promise a tax cut this year. But the promised $25 billion tax cut won't even begin to make up for the massive increase in the Social Security tax - which Johnson correctly calls "the biggest tax bill in history," at least since Caesar Augustus decreed "that all the world should be taxed..."

And, says Johnson of the Social Security tax bite, "...we haven't even begun to feel its impact yet."

So, on the one hand taxpayers are being offered a carrot, in the form of a possible $25 billion tax cut. But with the other hand they're being hit over the head with a stick, to the tune of an additional $227 billion which is going to be taken out of their paychecks over the next 10 years to boost the faltering Social Security system. Ouch!

Ouch!

Of course, the new taxes don't end there.

For example, a careful look at the administration's controversial energy program shows that it is really a tax plan.

Not a little one. But a great big one.

In fact, according to a recent Heritage Foundation research study, if the program emerges from Congress as it was proposed which, admittedly, is highly unlikely - the various energy-related taxes will add an estimated $377 billion to the nation's energy bill by 1985.

As Congressman Jim Collins, a member of the House-Senate conference committee which is trying to work out a compromise energy program, put it: "Much of the measure consists of tax programs intended to either encourage or discourage some sort of activity in the energy area. While the administration has repeatedly emphasized that the taxes will be rebated, the fact is that in many instances they will not..."

Ouch again!

A final note on taxes. In case you're wondering, here's what the Tax Foundation of New York says the average middle income American (making $16,500 per year) will pay in taxes in 1978: $1,688 in income taxes; $998 in Social Security taxes, and $1,849 in other federal taxes. The total he or she will pay is $4,536. And to repeat, "the worst is yet to come."

Editor's Log

Nader provides the answer?

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

I have often been urged to write about things which I knew something about, but rather than limiting my possible subject list to such a narrow field, I will use this week's space to discuss newspapers, and the readers' perspective of them.

One of the managing editor's responsibilities is to continually review the latest trends in the newspaper business and to attempt to second-guess the reading public's ever-changing concept of what is good and what isn't.

To help in that near impossible task, I often rely of newspaper polls which several organizations provide for that purpose. But in that relying, I have become more than just a little skeptical.

For example:

It is common knowledge among members of the newspaper media, that the sports section is often the main attraction for many readers. To satisfy the community's desire for comprehensive sports coverage, Associated Newspapers spared no expense in finding and keeping the very best sports editor available in this entire area.

But what did the latest poll indicate? Only 25 percent of those interviewed felt that the sports section was important, and even fewer people faithfully read the sports results on a regular basis.

Another poll indicated that people preferred a heavy emphasis on local news coverage within their paper, but few rated local news as the primary reason for buying a local newspaper.

About the only thing that the polls seem to agree on is that everyone loves to read about local society happenings, but the many calls we receive seems to indicate that a large number of readers could do very well without the society section as well.

Well, maybe at last the answer is at hand.

The latest issue of the Consumers Union News Digest, contains an article about the impending entry of Ralph Nader on the scene.

Nader, the self-styled consumer advocate and conscience of America, has started promotion of a do-it-yourself manual called "How to Appraise and Improve Your Daily Newspaper: A Manual for Readers."

Within the manual are instructions for readers to make local newspapers more responsive to the community, and it calls for the newspapers to help citizens become involved through in-house procedures.

Among some of the manual's recommendations are newspaper ombudsmen, media critics, local news councils, more space allocated for letters to the editor, columns for community opinions, and feedback forms printed in the paper.

It is interesting to note that Nader has so quickly grasped the situation which has created the gulf between newspapers and their readers. For only $5, he will send you a copy of the manual, so you too may learn to identify and correct the problem.

But, in the real world, things appear a little different.

We certainly would not argue with anyone's attempts to encourage community involvement. It is an overgrown simplification of the problem, however, to imply that simply providing readers with a manual on rating their newspaper will break any new ground in the struggle to involve citizens in local affairs. Much less will it effectively and collectively influence the format of local newspapers.

Newspapers exist to inform the public. And, to exist at all, they must generate at least enough revenue to cover the weekly payroll. And the best way that any newspaper can ensure its continued ability to publish is to provide potential customers and readers with the type of product which they will be willing to buy.

Unfortunately, there is no pat formula for the success of a publication. Of course, one method to ensure that you are providing customers with what they want, is to ask them what they want. But all too often, readers are reluctant to express themselves.

I hope that Ralph Nader is successful in the promotion of his manual. Others have tried, and others have failed. Because no one had better reason to encourage reader feedback than the newspapers themselves, and they have all tried, it is not likely that Nader will succeed, but the prospect is worth the effort.

Legislature eyes tax reform

By ROBERT LAW
State Representative
36th District

Amid the growing cries for tax relief in Michigan and the nation, California's Proposition 13 heralded the beginning of the middle class tax revolt. Californians voted themselves a 57 percent property tax cut—more than $7 billion—despite warnings that their schools might not be able to educate, crime rates might climb, and libraries and parks may no longer be free.

In Michigan, we presently have before the legislature a total of three constitutional amendments aimed at trimming property taxes. Two petitions are also circulating, and with enough signatures, they will appear on the November ballot.

And while Californians wielded a meat cleaver to hack away at their taxes, Michigan's approach offers a more realistic method to control taxes.

Most of you are probably familiar with the Tax Limitation proposal. Two years ago, it was known as Proposal C, and the voters of the state turned it down. This year, however, Tax Limitation has gained support from the ranks of some of its former opponents, and there are enough signatures on petitions to assure its spot on the November ballot.

The Tax Limitation proposal would amend the Michigan Constitution to limit the ability of the state legislature to increase state taxes beyond a percentage of the total personal income of the people. As the economy of the state grows and the personal income of the people increases, the legislature would have more money with which to work. But the legislature couldn't increase what proponents of tax limitation call its "share of the economic pie" without voter approval.

Those who favor tax limitation point out that the number of state government employees grew in the past 10 years by 50.3 percent while the population of the state grew by only 6.7 percent. They want to put a lid on government spending, and they believe the Tax Limitation Proposal is the proper mechanism.

It is important to remember that a final interpretation will have to be decided by the courts. However, I have briefly stated below what I believe it will and will not do.

1. It limits state taxation and expenditures, excluding federal aid, to a certain portion (somewhere between 9.1 percent and 9.5 percent) of Michigan personal income; unless the voters approve higher taxes, or an emergency is declared by the Governor and supported by a two-thirds majority in each House.
2. It does not freeze state taxes, but allows taxes to increase as personal income goes up.
3. It does not prevent the shifting of taxes from one person to another, or from one group to another. Thus, taxes on any individual may increase or decrease - it is the total tax levy that is limited.
4. It limits the growth in the property tax assessment within the taxing unit (county, city, village, township, etc.), to the rate of growth in the consumer price index, unless the people choose to exceed this. Again, it is important to note that the assessment on any particular piece of property may increase more than the limit - it is the taxing unit that is limited.

5. It does not prevent the shifting of taxes and programs from the state to the local, or from the local to the state, provided the shift is constitutionally approved by the voters and the total amount of taxes does not exceed the amount of taxes that would have been authorized without the change.
6. It prohibits the state from reducing the state financed proportion of the cost of any program required of the local units by state law.
7. It requires the state to pay the cost of any new programs that the state requires of the local unit.
8. It requires the state to maintain the proportion of total state spending paid to 'Californians wielded a meat cleaver to hack away at their taxes.'

all local units. Any one unit may receive more or less but the total cannot be reduced.

9. It does not limit taxes for the payment of bond obligations presently promised; or to bond obligations approved by the voters.
10. It does not limit taxes for the payment of bond obligations used for state loans to schools districts.
11. It does not reduce taxes and does not threaten present state and local programs; unless personal income decreases or the growth in the costs of the programs exceeds the growth in personal income.
12. The proposal, if passed, will limit state taxation and expenditure for fiscal year 1979-80 and each fiscal year thereafter.

NOTE: In point number 4, the limitation in the growth of property taxes does not include new construction or improvements.

A second petition in circulation is the Tish Proposal, similar to the California proposal, which would amend the Constitution and would cut property taxes 25 percent. This proposal has not gained a great deal of momentum up to this point.

On Friday, the legislature began debate on House Joint Resolution "C", a property tax measure that must be approved by the legislature and the voters in order to amend the Constitution. The proposed amendment would transfer the burden of financing public education from the property tax to the personal income tax. It would reduce the maximum to be applied against the state equalized valuation from 50 mills to 24 mills. It would retain millage for counties, townships, and cities, community colleges, intermediate school district operations, special and vocational education against the property tax.

The proposal would allow a maximum levy of eight mills for counties, two mills for non-chartered townships and one mill each for community colleges, special education, vocational education, a community school program and education building and site. Local districts could, by a vote of the people, levy a local enrichment millage of four mills.

Revenue lost from deleting school operating millage from the property tax would be supplied by an increase in the state personal income tax of approximately two percent.

A special ad hoc committee of the House voted to support the Smith proposal.

A second Constitutional amendment in the House, HJR "II", would reduce the property tax burden by 60 percent for residential, farm and timber cut-over property. It would also limit the growth of taxation to a maximum of seven percent a year, as well as guaranteeing local control and state funds for districts which lose revenues through property tax reduction.

The third amendment, recommended by the Governor, would permit school district residents by their vote to replace 22 mills of local property tax with a two percent local personal income tax. Commercial and industrial taxes would not be affected under the plan.

According to this proposal, if a majority of voters in a school district approved the property tax reduction option, the state would collect the additional two percent income tax and guarantee the school district the money normally raised by the 22 mills. If, on the other hand, the income tax produced less than the amount that would be raised by 22 mills, the state would make up the difference.

This means that the state guarantees that no district will sustain a loss by choosing the new option, and district voters could return to the present system any time they choose in the future.

I have also been interested in the impact of our expanding bureaucracy. Earlier this year I introduced a package of bills to deal with problem.

The bills would set a limit on increases in the number of state employees to the same percentage as the increase in population in the state. Also, the package would open up to public scrutiny all salaries and fringe benefits of government employees and give the auditor general greatly expanded powers to investigate fraud and government management.

I hope this will give you an understanding of the proposals that are either circulating or under consideration in the legislature. You may have to choose among them, and I urge you to familiarize yourself with these proposals and make a well educated choice.

Reflections

You gotta be firm!

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

When one deals with kids one has to always remember to be firm. When one deals with stray animals one has to be twice as firm, because kids and stray animals go hand in hand. And if the parent lets his guard down for just one minute, then he finds his home swarming with kids and stray animals, and there's nowhere he can find peace.

It's especially hard for parents like me who are real suckers for big round eyes filled with pleading, or the piteous meow of a little stray cat to stay absolutely firm. Besides being a sucker I'm allergic. I'm allergic to everything that has fur on it and walks on four legs.

So I've got to be firm.

Right at this minute while I'm sitting here writing, there's a gray striped cat meowing forlornly outside my door. I've already given him six cans of white meat tuna and a half gallon of milk and he is completely ungrateful.

He refuses to go away.

I keep saying to him, "Listen, little cat, if I give you one more can of white meat tuna, and another bowl of milk, will you please go home?"

I know I have to be firm so that I won't break out in hives and be unattractive to my husband, but why do I have to be soft-hearted? Of course, the man in my life calls it something else, like soft-headed, especially when his favorite blanket was used on the porch to wrap the cat in one night when it was raining.

I didn't do it...like I said, one has to be firm...but I didn't exactly say no to the kids when they suggested it, although I hadn't really meant for them to take their father's favorite blanket.

Of course, it's easy for a father to be firm. He goes out the door in the morning and scowls at the cat and says, "Get rid of that cat."

When he comes home at night he says, "Did you get rid of that cat?" And the kids say, "No". And he climbs behind his newspaper and says, "I want you to get rid of that cat before I come home tomorrow evening."

Of course those kids know he doesn't mean it, because they remember the time a stray dog followed our oldest boy home, and walked right in without even a by-your-leave. He didn't leave that kid's side the whole evening, and at dinner time he insisted on sitting under the boy's chair.

When it was time for the kid to go to bed that big-shaggy black dog trundled right up the stairs alongside him, and took up his post beside the kid's bed. And he wouldn't budge.

When the kid's father came home, he said, "That dog has got to go."

So with manly authority he strode up those stairs and opened the door, and said, "Out".

That shaggy dog leaped to his feet, bared his fangs and GROWLED.

My little boy's father closed the door and came back downstairs and said, "I don't suppose it's going to hurt to let him stay the rest of the night."

As I said the only way to deal with kids and stray animals is to be firm.

On the Brighter Side

Liberty or license

By JIM BRADLEY

As we approach the star-spangled week of the Fourth of July, it seems an ideal time to stop and reflect on the past, present and future of "American: the beautiful."

But it must not be with jaunty spirit or jaundiced eye.

Any true reflection must bear the unmistakable stamp of objectivity—that hard-to-capture trait which gives a person the necessary balance to view facts with delicate precision.

Ohyes, I know it's been touched upon ten thousand times. It's even a bit frayed around the edges, but let's look once more upon the glorious tradition of our country. And in doing so let's also promise to look at both sides of the question.

First of all, what is the difference between liberty-wich we all desire—and license, which would destroy us all?

In looking back upon our birth as a nation, we can't help but include George Washington kneeling with his troops at Valley Forge, beseeching God for the opportunity to decide which way our nation would go. So, today, we again are deciding with every issue, with every decision, with every personal action—which way we're heading as a people.

And we can't help but seem troubled with what we see.

For a nation founded upon the twin pillars of faith in God and personal freedom, we seem to be ignoring both. Ugly cracks have appeared in each pillar. No longer are we really a praying nation—and license is being mistaken for liberty today.

We, as people of Bible times, "draw near to God with our mouths, but our hearts are far from him." God's patience is mistaken for approval and His mercy for blessing. In reflecting upon our past, it seems clearly evident that we've gone from a "praying nation" to a straying nation. In direct proportion to the emptiness of our churches is the accelerating emptiness of our hearts and homes.

Like the weather, we talk about moral decay but do nothing about it. When's the last time, for instance, that you earnestly prayed for America to "walk with God" and to give His Son, the Lord Jesus Christ, His rightful place in our lives? Too many of us want to use God as "an insurance policy" or a "fire escape."

"In God We Trust" is nothing more than a meaningless phrase on our coins and court houses. And it is but a symbolic reproduction of the careless repeating of religious words in our places of worship. Indeed, we draw near to God with our mouth—once in a great while—while our hearts are far from Him. Is it any wonder that we are weighed with material as well as spiritual blight?

And what about freedom?

It seems that people today tend to go to extremes. Some abuse their liberty, while others never use their liberty. An abundance of Americans, shouting: "Liberty", destroy in the act of license. They would enslave mentally all those who are too lazy to think for themselves.

Others ignore the responsibilities that are part and parcel of liberty. The voting booths, as well as many churches, are largely ignored. Many moan about conditions but never raise a hand to improve the situation. And thus it will ever be.

But "Hope springs eternal in the human breast" that the majority of Americans will remember. Will remember that over the years it's been the majority getting involved that has made our country great.

Perhaps we've fallen upon hard times—spiritually, socially, financially and morally—because we've ignored our priceless spiritual heritage and responsibilities.

Only in remembering—and doing them—will we regain our glorious past!

Health Beat

Beyer's boss in charge

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

PCHA is an organization of five community hospitals which prides itself on supporting a philosophy which allows it to attract and hire top-level executive personnel without regard to sex, race, religion or any other meaningless trappings.

A powerful expression of that philosophy can be found in the administrators' office at PCHA's Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti.

As you enter the outer office, you will be greeted by a female secretary—an event which is not especially surprising to most people.

However, as you walk by the secretary and move into the large inner office, you might be somewhat taken aback to see another young lady (age 32) sitting behind what is obviously the administrator's desk.

Her name is Laura L. Weng, and she is indeed the "boss" at Beyer Memorial Hospital; it must be understood in this piece, that the term boss is used in only its positive connotations.

Ms. Weng is one of only a handful of women in the Country who holds such a responsible position in a major hospital. (Catholic nuns have been running hospitals for centuries, are they not included in that statement).

"I've never really been too concerned with my gender as it related to my ability to do a job," she said. "I'm convinced that if a person is prepared to obtain the necessary training for a particular job, and then is able and willing to do the job, things will work out as they should."

Ms. Weng is from the small town of Stephenson in Michigan's Upper Peninsula. It's a wonderful place in which to grow up. We have clean lakes, beautiful woodlands, and the most serious crime is littering!

She left Stephenson to enroll at The University of Michigan in September of 1963. In 1967 she had earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Nursing. As an undergraduate, her scholastic ability was such that she was elected to Phi Kappa Phi—the nursing equivalent of Phi Beta Kappa.

Her first job was at University Hospital as a bedside nurse. She quickly demonstrated her administrative ability, and she moved through the ranks to supervision where she directed patient care in one of the most prestigious hospitals in the land.

"Still, something was missing. I enjoyed the nursing service, but I felt there was more I could accomplish in the health care delivery industry."

Hence, she applied to the graduate school in 1971 as a candidate for the two-year Master's degree in Hospital Administration. She graduated with an MHA in 1973, and again distinguished herself with academic excellence.

Her next stop was at the Central Office of the PCHA where she served for one year as the Assistant to the Executive Director. She was able to consume her assignments with an amazing rapidity. It thus became evident that she was capable of doing much more than was being asked of her.

In June of 1974, she was assigned temporarily as the interim administrator at PCHA's Seaway Hospital in Trenton. Six months later, she began an assignment as Assistant Administrator at PCHA's Outer Drive Hospital in Lincoln Park.

In the fall of 1976, she was appointed to the Administrator's position at Beyer Memorial—becoming thus the first woman in the history of PCHA to assume a top executive position.

"Because I did spend some years as a nurse, I feel that perhaps I have a slight advantage over some hospital administrators. I'm able to look at this business of health care delivery with more than just dollar signs in my eyes. I know how people can hurt, and I think that I have the ability to perceive a total understanding of patient needs."

There have been those times, albeit rarely, when she has had to reprimand or argue with a physician.

"No one enjoys those episodes, and most will go out of their way to avoid any confrontations. However, if all other approaches fail to satisfy a problem, then I assure you that I'm capable of exerting myself and invoking the authority given to me by the Board of Directors."

Ms. Weng directs the multi-million dollar Beyer operation not as a woman, but as an administrator.

"There isn't any other way, is there!"

Springer Archery: A bow for all seasons

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Robin Hood would have a field day and William Tell would pierce the apple off his son's head with greater assurance if they could use the archery equipment available today.

Just a casual stroll through Springer Archery Supply, 12731 Huron River Drive, just south of Northline, in Romulus proves that.

The 16-year-old business has so many different kinds of bows and arrows that Robin Hood would still be figuring out which one to use to rob the rich and give to the poor. And the apple would still be resting on William's son's head while his father tested the best in archery equipment.

And with his new-found confidence, he wouldn't even have a "quiver".

That's why owner Dick Springer and professional archer Robert Thorne invite you to come in and browse around their store that is stocked with the latest and finest in archery equipment.

But the big business is a far cry from its humble beginning in Dick's home in 1962. Dick started the business that year as an ambitious young man fresh out of the Air Force.

With the help of his wife, Marie, who was also a proficient archer, Dick decided to turn his interest in and love for archery into a business. It began modestly in their private home with the idea of providing quality products at a moderate price.

But they even went a step farther. They provided the coaching advice necessary to properly utilize the accessories and gear they sold. From fletching arrows (the assembling of the arrow from the raw shaft) to retailing bows, the firm turned to manufacturing fish reels, fish points, bow strings and a list of other archery products.

As its reputation grew, the company increased from just a local following so that now, 16 years later, the firm has customers from Canada to Australia. Springer Archery employs up to 10 people in its retail, wholesale, and manufacturing operations.

Marie Springer was also a pilot and died on Easter Sunday of 1972 in a plane crash. Dick, with two small children to raise, continued on in the activity he loves so much.

Working with Springer in the venture is Thorne, a National Field

Archery Association professional. He is superbly qualified to guide the customer to the best suited equipment, whether the archer is a tournament contestant or an occasional hunter.

Springer Archery shares memberships in other archery organizations such as Bear, Easton, Bohning, Outers and several other companies.

Dick is quite excited about the new $41,000 semi-enclosed archery range being built in Elmer Johnson Park in Romulus. It is a joint venture between the city, Archery Manufacturers Organization and Huron Sod Farms, the latter a local business in charge of sodding the archery range.

"We feel archery is an exciting sport and people who have never tried it will find it a challenge and a lot of fun," Springer says.

"We invite the public to come in and browse around and see the wide variety of good equipment we have available. There are prices to suit every income and people can buy as much or as little equipment as they want to."

On Springer's store are two large targets painted on the side of the building. One is eight feet high and the other is 10 feet high and both can be seen from I-275 which is located a short distance away.

"So far no one has taken aim and tried to hit the bullseye," Springer laughed, "and we hope they don't."

But Springer does hope customers take aim and come in to shop around—even if they will have a

Dawn Patrol takes over Tecumseh Meyers Airport

Pilots, townspeople and visitors alike are invited to fly, drive or walk to Meyers Airport Dawn Patrol in Tecumseh, located off US-12 on Tecumseh-Clinton Road, on Sunday.

The Dawn Patrol will close Heritage Days in Tecumseh. An egg and sausage breakfast will be available from dawn to 12 noon and will kick off a full day of aviation activities. A chicken box lunch will be available from 12 noon to 4 p.m. Special guest will be Don Chaffee, father of the late Apollo astronaut Roger Chaffee, who died in a tragic fire on the launch pad at Cape Kennedy. He will speak about his son and show some new NASA films.

Aviation rides—airplane, helicopter and sail planes—will be available to the public, while a local Shrine organization will be offering rides in an antique fire engine.

Other activities throughout the day will include a remote controlled model airplane aerobatic show, mass parachute jumps and demonstrations, power-driven hang glider demonstration, free blood pressure readings and continuous film showings by the U.S. Air Force.

Breakfast and lunch tickets will be drawn throughout the day for public prizes, and there will be special pilot prizes.

Proceeds from the day-long event will be shared by the Tecumseh Facility Committee and the Al Meyers Airport maintenance fund.

Travel may set record

Michigan should continue this year's record tourism pace during the big Fourth of July holiday as motorists are expected to drive 770 million miles over the five-day period, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Major tourism barometers such as vacation spending, advance lodging reservations, travel inquiries and vehicle miles driven have increased significantly over last year and those factors indicate a banner July 4th holiday," said Auto Club Touring Manager Joseph Ratke. "Travelers already have spent nearly $1.8 billion in Michigan for the first five months of 1978—10 percent more than last year—and many tourism operators feel this record spending will carry through the upcoming holiday."

If good weather holds, Auto Club predicts holiday motorists will drive 69 million miles more than in 1974, the last time Michigan had a 102-hour July 4th weekend. The record for a summer holiday is the 870 million miles projected for the 1972 July 4th weekend by the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation.

"Michiganians planning to vacation at popular holiday retreats, especially those along Lakes Michigan and Huron, should make reservations now because many lodges, motels and hotels expect to fill for the July 4th weekend," Ratke said. "While advance reservations already are being made at a record rate along Lake Michigan from Muskegon to Petoskey and also farther inland around Cadillac and East Jordan, space still is available."

"Such Upper Peninsula communities as St. Ignace, Ironwood and Escanaba also are experiencing heavy demand for accommodations."

All Lower Peninsula and 13 of 19 U.P. state park campgrounds checked by Auto Club expect capacity crowds this holiday, with many of the facilities filling by June 28 and remaining that way through July 4.

"Those optimistic July 4th predictions are part of this year's trend towards increased tourism activity across the state," Ratke pointed out.

During the first five months of this year, the Michigan Travel Bureau received 6.3 percent more inquiries about Michigan vacations than in 1977 while Auto Club's Touring Department had its busiest first five-month period ever and its busiest May in history.

The West Michigan Tourist Association said the travel business in their area is up 15 percent over last year and indications are that 1978 should be the area's finest season ever. Tourism in southeast Michigan has increased 17 percent over the same period in 1977. Tourism also is up so far this year in east Michigan and in the U.P.

This year's July 4th holiday officially begins at 6 p.m. Friday and runs through midnight Tuesday, and for the third straight summer holiday State Police will have "Operation CARE" (Combined Accident Reduction Effort) in full force to help reduce highway fatalities.

Beefed-up patrols and strict speed limit enforcement on major tourist arteries each day last Memorial Day holiday helped account for a 23 percent drop in traffic deaths from the preceding year. A 42 percent decrease in highway fatalities was recorded when "CARE" was initiated last Labor Day weekend.

State Police will have an additional 200 troopers on roads each day of this holiday and will concentrate on motorcyclists or their passengers. Troopers will stress the 55 miles-per-hour speed limit and proper turn signaling and movements by cyclists.

To help travelers, Auto Club's "Bring 'Em Back Alive!" Holiday News Service will report developments on traffic and tourism from 3 to 11 p.m. Friday and from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. Friday through Tuesday.

The Garden Doctor says.....

This week the Garden Doctor talks about:

Q: The leaves on our roses have patches where the green tissue has been eaten away so there is only thin parchment — like tissue left. What insect does this?

A: This is the characteristic damage of rose slug. The rose slug actually is not a slug at all, but the larvae of a sawfly. Insecticides such as Malathion and Sevin, both of which usually are found in rose sprays, give good control.

Q: Leaves are starting to curl on our tomatoes. What causes this?

A: First, check for aphids and whiteflies on the undersides of the leaves. These insects sucking the juice from the leaf can cause severe curl. A second possible cause is adverse growing conditions such as soil too dry or too wet, or temperatures that are too high or too low. A third possibility is drift from herbicides used in the lawn. Tomatoes are unusually sensitive to 2, 4-D.

Q: Our pine trees have branch tips where no growth is coming. There is only a swelling on the tip and there's gum and resin in some of the nearby forks. Growth that is forming further back on the branch looks weak and deformed.

A: The dead tips, stubby growth and damaged shoots are the symptoms of the European pine shoot moth. Further damage can be controlled by spraying around July 4 with Sevin (carbaryl) or Cygon (dimethoate).

Q: What trees would be relatively tolerant to clay soils?

A: Some trees are more likely to tolerate clay soil than others. From the shade trees you could choose Norway maple and its many cultivars, pin oak, bur oak and little-leaf linden. Ornamental trees you might choose are Amelanchier, Cornelian cherry and glossy buckthorn. Evergreens that are relatively clay tolerant include white spruce and Arborvitae.

Prepared by the American Society of Chartered Life Underwriters, the national society of life insurance professionals who have earned the C.L.U. designation by meeting high educational, ethical and experience requirements.

Q: When I bought my house ten years ago, I paid $25,000 for it. Now it's worth almost twice that, but my $25,000 life insurance policy is still worth $25,000. Inflation has hurt me there, right?

A: Not really. During an inflationary period the money you collect from an insurance company may have less purchasing power but on the other hand, since your salary will usually increase in inflation, the percentage of your income you pay for premiums declines.

Not surprisingly, most people add to their existing life insurance protection during an inflationary period because their incomes have risen and they have more dollars to protect.

Area residents collect advance degrees

Several Belleville-Romulus residents were among students at Eastern Michigan University to receive advance degrees at the recent spring commencement ceremony.

Belleville residents garnering advance degrees were Elsie Goode of Denton Road, master of science; Sandra McGahey of Burtrig, master of arts; Mary Bethany Newman of North Liberty, master of arts; Richard Nowak of East Willis Road, master of science; and Larrow Tonda of Carriage Lane, master of arts.

The lone Flat Rock recipient was James S. Martin of Magnolia, who received his master of arts degree.

The Romulus degree recipients were Sharon Marr of Wahrman, master of arts; and Dale Travis of Hannon Road, master of science.

In other college news:

Robert W. Lawrence of Wilson, Belleville received his degree, a master of business administration, in commencement ceremonies June 10 at Baldwin-Wallace College in Berea, Ohio.

Roxanne Gaybier of Flat Rock recently was initiated in the Michigan State University Chapter of Phi Kappa Phi, the national honor society that recognizes and encourages superior scholarship in all fields of study.

Francesca D. Henningburg of Ecorse Road, Romulus, was awarded an associate of applied science degree in fashion merchandising during commencement ceremonies May 14 at Siena Heights College in Adrian, Mich.

Philip T. Rush of Romulus recently was honored at the School of Business and Engineering Administration's recognition luncheon at Michigan Technological University. He was a member of the school of Business dean's list.

Two Romulus residents were among the largest graduating class in the history of Kalamazoo College, located in Kalamazoo, Mich.

Graduating June 10 were Patricia A. Addell, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Austin of Ecorse Road, and Jocelyn A. Ozga, the daughter of Mrs. Sylvia Ozga of Sylvan Lake and Stanley Ozga of Ozga Road, Romulus.

Robin D. Hook of Savage Road, Belleville, recently received his bachelor of business administration degree from Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo.

The commencement ceremony was held at the conclusion of the winter semester.

Vicki L. Smith, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Smith of Bohn Road, Belleville, was one of 113 students from the state included on the dean's list at Bob Jones University in Greenville, S.C.

Miss Smith is a junior in the School of Fine Arts.

Michael Dansard of Belleville received his bachelor of science degree in physical education during commencement ceremonies June 10 at Grand Valley State College in Allendale, Mich.

Romulus resident Daryl Gooden also received his bachelor science degree this month from Grand Valley State College. He majored in physical education.

John Niemann of New Boston has been recognized for his outstanding academic achievement and named to the dean's list at Northern Michigan University in Marquette. He maintained a 3.25 or better grade point average to be named to the honors listing.

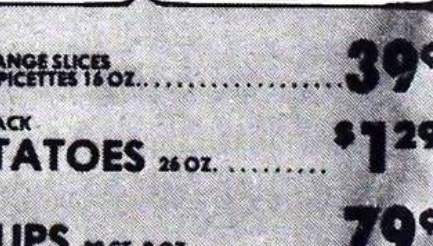

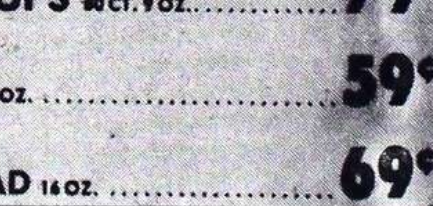

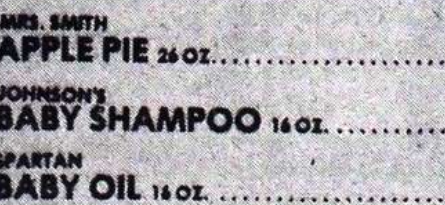

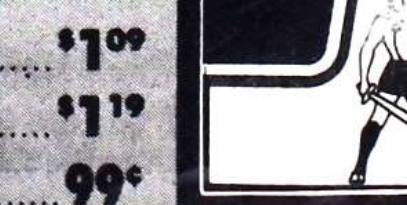

Jon K. Batzer of Clerence, Belleville, and Kathryn E. Koski of Bemis Road, Belleville, were among 1,824 students recognized for scholastic excellence during the winter quarter at Ferris State College in Big Rapids.

Shenna M. Bankston of Belleville has been appointed clerk in the Academic Records and Teacher Certification Office at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti. Her appointment was approved May 17 by the university's Board of Regents.

Handicapper talks about being disabled

What is it like to be handicapped? Most of us probably don't want to know. We prefer to avoid handicapped as if they had some type of contagious disease, when in fact they are just like anybody else.

According to Dennis McDougal, a Belleville residents and Eastern Michigan University student who is handicapped, physical disability causes many aches and frustrations, but like everyone else, he has learned to live with it.

"At times it is very scary and very alone," he said. "But I also have a life to live."

McDougal was one of several speakers at a "Psychological Reactions to Disability" seminar sponsored by the Michigan Health Council, Washtenaw Community College and Eastern Michigan University's Division of Continuing Education. The seminar was held June 7-9 at EMU's McKenny Union.

McDougal, who suffers from cerebral palsy and quadriplegia, said he was not aware that he was different from others until he had reached the age of three or four. He said he could not do things that other children did and had to rely on his parents for the physical assistance he needed to survive.

"Parents become the central hub of such a child's life and existence," he said. "Being disabled means living a hard life — to say the least."

McDougal said one of his first discoveries was the telephone, an instrument which fascinated him.

"I was 12 when I first learned to make use of the telephone," he recalled. "I enjoyed hearing the dial tone, it was something new and different to me."

He said he went through the entire telephone book in order to learn more about it, and then began playing with it.

"The first time somebody picked up the receiver at the other end and said, 'hello,' I was thrilled and didn't know what to say," he said.

While he was growing up, McDougal often wanted to make friends with other children his age, but was prevented from doing so because of his disability.

"I felt strange looking at other people walking down the street holding hands. I wanted to be part of them," he said. "Here I am. I can think. Sure I look different, but I am as good as anyone walking down the street."

McDougal said his disability caused him a lot of loneliness and frustration.

"Because of my limited mobility, I had very few close friends. I compensated for my lack of friends by reading anything I could lay my hands on, thereby creating my own experiences, and by watching a lot of TV," he added.

He said it took a while to get used to the reactions of others.

"I have had people stare at me and I used to stare back at them so they would get the idea of what it feels like to be stared at. And then there are those who jeer at my handicap whom I simply ignore."

The psychology major often feels the strain his lack of mobility brings. He is unable to do many things for himself and often is afraid of injuries that might result from this.

"There are so many things that I have gone through. I am lying down on my bed in my room, and it starts raining. Since I cannot move by myself, how do I shut the window?"

Lack of understanding by others is the biggest hurt, according to McDougal. He said people often don't find the time to talk to him and listen to some of his problems.

"No person wants to be rejected," he said. "I wanted to have very close and intimate communication with people about problems associated with my total being. I have not found too many of them and it hurts. It is very difficult to say to someone, 'Gee, I really feel bad today. Could you just hold me?'"

However, McDougal said it took determination and initiative to reach his goals. Before coming to EMU, he attended Washtenaw Community College where he faced the difficulties of arranging transportation and schedules and making sure that a wheelchair and attendant were always there.

"You learn to handle these situations in a very businesslike fashion. I make schedules for myself and for the other people who help me so that I can get my things done, and they have their freedom too," he explained. "An individual is the creator of the world he lives in and it is totally up to the individual what he wishes to gain from his life."

Students explore careers in CORC

Romulus Senior High School students can explore eight different career areas this summer, right in their own schoolrooms, by taking a special summer career exploration program, according to Sherrill Pryor of Career Opportunities Resources Center (CORC).

"The program is free and worth a half credit toward graduation," Ms. Pryor explained. "Students will spend one or more weeks looking into each of the eight different areas — building trades, food, child care, health, photography, office skills, small machine repair and interior decorating."

The program is in its second week, she said, but there is time to register by contacting the CORC at 941-0600, between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Fourth specials hit 56

Three musical specials will be presented on the evening of July 4 as Chennel 56 salutes the anniversary of the United States' fight for independence.

The first special at 7 p.m. will feature Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic in concert in London. Selected songs will include Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever," George Gershwin's "An American in Paris" and "Rhapsody in Blue" and Aaron Copland's "A Lincoln Portrait."

Following at 8 p.m. will be a repeat showing of Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops "On the Esplanade." Every Fourth of July, Fiedler and the Pops throw a party concert on the banks of the Charles River in Boston.

With more than 300,000 people in attendance, Fiedler leads the orchestra in a concert that includes music by Sousa, Handel, Straudd and Offenbach. The finale is a spectacular performance of Tchaikovsky's "1812 Overture" accompanied by church bells, howitzers and a display of fireworks.

At 9:30 p.m. it's patriotic music of a different sort as many of the country's best-known folksingers gather for the "Phil Ochs Memorial Celebration."

Musicians and singers like Peter Seeger, Melanie, Tom Rush, Peter Yarrow and Oscar Brand are featured in this tribute to the late singer and activist. Selections include "Day is Done" and "Draft Dodger Rag."

VAN BUREN PUBLIC SCHOOLS MINUTES

Regular Meeting, May 8, 1978

The Regular Meeting of the Van Buren Board of Education was held in the Board Room of the Administration Building on Monday, May 8, 1978 at 8:00 p.m.

Members present: Charles Paas, James Sayre, Doris Roe, Robert Cook, Richard Muse, Ronald Tocco, and William McCollum. Also present were Superintendent Dale Kaulitz, Director of Business Affairs Jack Hosmer, Director of Personnel Raymond Kohr, and Director of Instruction Douglas Brown.

President Roe called the meeting to order at 8:00 p.m.

The minutes of the regular meeting of April 10, 1978 and special meeting of April 25, 1978 were approved as printed.

On recommendation of the Business Office, motion by James Sayre, supported by Ronald Tocco, that:

Lucille Crook, school bus driver, be terminated effective April 10, 1978;
Susan Myers, food service worker, be granted request for termination effective April 21, 1978;

Alene Knust be hired as a food service worker effective April 24, 1978; and Arnold McCurdy, custodian at Rawsonville Elementary School, be granted request for termination effective May 5, 1978.

Motion carried.
The financial reports and the bills payable for April were reviewed. Motion by James Sayre, supported by Richard Muse, that the financial reports be accepted as presented and the bills be paid as presented. Motion carried.

Jack Hosmer presented the appraisal received on the Martinsville School property by Abercrombie Real Estate & Appraisal Co. They appraised the property at $19,000. Motion by Charles Paas, supported by Robert Cook, to approve putting the Martinsville School property up for sale at a value of $19,000. Motion carried.

Request from Wayne-Westland Community Schools for the purchase of four mobile classrooms at $5,500 each was presented. Motion by Charles Paas, supported by William McCollum, to approve request as presented. Motion carried.

Mr. Adel from Adel's Mobile Homes in Belleville was present and requested permission to move one of our mobile units to their sales lot, free of charge, and represent us in the sale of them. His commission would be 10 percent above our asking price. Motion by Charles Paas, supported by Robert Cook, to work out an agreement with Mr. Adel based on information presented to dispose of portable classrooms at prices established. Motion carried.

A letter was presented from the bus driver's union requesting to begin contract negotiations. Present contract expires June 30, 1978. Motion by William McCollum, supported by Richard Muse, that Paul Townsend, Jack Hosmer, and John Jobe be the Board's negotiating team for the bus driver's contract. Motion carried.

A revised building use policy was presented. Motion by Robert Cook, supported by James Sayre, that the building use policy be approved as presented. Motion carried.

Sale of the Building Trades home was discussed. Three appraisals were received from local realtors. It was the recommendation of Jack Hosmer and Bill Nagy that the home be sold for a minimum bid price of $67,900. Motion by Robert Cook, supported by Charles Paas, that the Building Trades home be sold at minimum bid price of $67,900, as recommended. Motion carried.

On recommendation of the Personnel Office, motion by Doris Roe, supported by Ronald Tocco, that:

Doris Schember, teacher at North Jr. High School, be granted request for termination of contract effective June 9, 1978;
Mary Smith, teacher at North Jr. High School, be granted request for termination of contract effective June 9, 1978;
Marion Hoffman, school nurse, be granted request for termination of contract effective May 5, 1978;

Alice Cosselman, high school counselor, be granted request for termination of contract effective June 9, 1978; and Mary Claire Ellward, high school counselor, be granted request for termination of contract effective June 9, 1978.

Motion carried.
Raymond Kohr requested that he receive the final report from Mr. Tocco's committee regarding the 6.85 mills so he can proceed with hiring personnel for the next school year. Motion by Charles Paas, supported by William McCollum, to adopt program as developed by Mr. Tocco's committee relative to the 6.85 mills. Motion carried.

Ted Center presented a request for additional help in reading for junior high students. Discussion was held. Matter was referred to Robert Crain. Special Services Supervisor, and Board is to be kept informed on the matter.

Mark Rairick, Van Buren Township Recreation Director, presented a request for use of one room at Quirk, Tyler, Haggerty, and possibly Edgemont Elementary Schools for eight weeks during the summer for a Playground Program. Program would begin in June and end the first week in August. It would run Monday through Friday from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. The township insurance policy covers any damage that might occur at the buildings. It was noted that the building use policy states that the schools would be closed during the months of July and August to be ready for the next school year. The possibility of using the portable classrooms was discussed. Motion by Ronald Tocco, supported by Richard Muse, that the matter be referred back to the Building & Grounds Committee to review and work out a suitable solution to both parties. Meeting to be held within one week. Motion carried.

Robert Crain, Special Services Supervisor, and Ina Keyes and Carol Potter, Preschool Teachers, presented a slide program on the preschool program offered this year and requested that the program be continued for the 1978-79 school year. The program this year was no cost to the district. Request was tabled for further study.

Douglas Brown presented a request from the high school asking that in view of the fact that they are returning to a six hour program in the fall, the graduation requirements be returned to 15 credits. This would be done gradually by the following steps: 1) Class of 1979 - 14 credits to graduate, 2) Class of 1980 - 14½ credits to graduate, and 3) Class of 1981 - 15 credits to graduate. In addition, they requested that one full credit in Physical Education be required for graduation. This could be done by taking one semester of health and one semester of physical education or one full year of physical education. Motion by Doris Roe, supported by Richard Muse, that the graduation requirements be revised as presented. Motion carried.

Board meeting date for June was discussed. The Annual Election will be held on the regular scheduled day of the meeting which is June 12, 1978. Motion by James Sayre, supported by Charles Paas, that due to the Annual Election being held on June 12 the regular meeting of the Board of Education will be held on June 19, 1978. Motion carried.

Motion by William McCollum, supported by Robert Cook, that the regular meeting recess into executive session to discuss negotiation strategies (Section 8c of the Open Meetings Act). Motion carried. Regular meeting recessed at 11:05 p.m. and reconvened at 11:55 p.m.

Motion by James Sayre, supported by William McCollum, to adopt the following resolution:

Enjoy an outdoor feast on the 'Fourth'

Picnics as well as parades are an important part of America's Independence Day celebration, and fireworks share the spotlight with good food. It's an occasion for a feast to enjoy with relatives, neighbors and friends.

Prepared by what to serve for this July jubilee? For an ideal salute to the "Fourth", grill some Picnickers' Pork Steaks, made extra tasty with a marinade of pineapple syrup, onion, soy sauce, oil, corn syrup and ginger.

Accompany the meat with Cookout Peas 'n Mushrooms and Chive 'n Onion Biscuits and you've the delicious start of a 4-star meal.

Cut a chilled watermelon into thick wedges and add your other favorite desserts and you've a winning combination.

Picnickers' Pork Steaks

4 to 6 pork blade steaks, cut 3/4 to 1 inch thick
1 can (8 ounces) crushed pineapple in heavy syrup
1 medium onion, chopped
1/2 cup soy sauce
1/4 cup salad oil
1 teaspoon ground ginger

Drain pineapple; reserve syrup and combine with onion, soy sauce, oil, corn syrup and ginger in small saucepan; cook 10 minutes, stirring to blend. Cool. Refrigerator pineapple. Place pork steaks in a flat utility dish and pour marinade over them; cover and refrigerate 4 to 6 hours or overnight. Remove steaks and place on grill over ash-covered coals so surface of meat is 4 to 5 inches from heat; reserve marinade. Broil steaks at low to moderate temperature, turning and brushing with marinade occasionally, 30 to 40 minutes or until well done. Sprinkle reserved crushed pineapple over steaks last 5 minutes of cooking time. 6 to 8 servings.

Cookout Peas 'n Mushrooms

2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen peas
1 can (3 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
1/4 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Combine peas, mushrooms, onion, salt and pepper on an 18-inch square of heavy duty aluminum foil. Dot with butter. Bring 4 corners of foil up together in a pyramid shape. Fold the openings together loosely to allow for heat circulation and expansion. Seal by folding over ends and pressing to package. Cook over ash-covered coals 15 to 20 minutes, stirring peas occasionally, or until tender. 6 servings.

Chive 'n Onion Biscuits

1 package (11 ounces) heat and serve biscuits, split one-third cup butter or margarine, softened
1/2 teaspoon chopped chives
1/4 teaspoon instant minced onion

Arrange bottom half of biscuits in a rectangle on a 24-inch length of heavy duty aluminum foil. Combine butter, chives and onion; spread on biscuits and cover with top half of biscuits. Bring 2 sides of foil together above biscuits; fold down in a series of locked folds, allowing for heat circulation and expansion. Fold short ends up and over again; crimp to seal. Cook over ash-covered coals turning once, 15 minutes or until butter has melted and biscuits are hot. Yield: 10 to 12 biscuits.

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Robson of Tyler Road were friends, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Wick of Thies River Falls, Minn. and Arvid Ericson of Bell, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Spring of Plymouth, Mrs. Roy Sugars of Wayne and Mrs. Joseph Spring of Belleville returned home Wednesday evening from a 5-day trip to Manchester, Tenn. where they visited former Belleville Road residents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Wood.

Wednesday luncheon guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Robson of Tyler Road were Alma Poole of Detroit; Marguerite Heywood of Farmington Hills, Melvin and Lena Cuthbert of Bay City and Mrs. Don Zimmer and children of Charlotte.

Pretty picnic fixings

Good food and a jug full of this deliciously thirst-quenching Apricot Ambush hold the promise of success for a picnic for two — or more. (Photo courtesy Country Time lemonade flavor drink mix.)

Easy picnic goodies

Two's company, and an intimate picnic is the perfect way to make the most of the occasion. Whether your tastes favor your favorite picnic site and a shade tree or a big umbrella, good food and plenty of liquid refreshment will go a long way to assure a successful outing.

Transport the comforts of home with a well-fitted picnic basket and a complete meal. A batch of crispy, tender baked chicken drumsticks, fresh raw vegetables marinated in your favorite dressing, a loaf of French bread and fresh fruit make for a veritable feast.

Before leaving home mix up a thermos full of thirst-quenching Apricot Ambush. The deliciously tart flavor of Country Time lemonade flavor drink mix is enhanced with the addition of apricot nectar. Set out your elegant stemware (plastic, of course!) and before serving, add the chilled soda. When your picnic includes company, mix up doubles — or triples of this refreshing beverage.

The lemonade flavor drink mix is a natural complement to juices, and for another picnic quencher, you'll love sparkling Fruit Cooler, a tart Sangria-type punch served with carbonated soda and fruit slices.

Baked Drumsticks

2-1/2 pounds chicken drumsticks
1 envelope seasoned coating mix for chicken, any flavor

Coat drumsticks with seasoned coating mix and bake as directed on package. Cool and chill. Makes about 4 servings.

Fruit Cooler

4 scoops lemonade flavor drink mix
4 cups cranberry juice cocktail, chilled
1 bottle (32 fl. oz.) lemon-lime carbonated beverage, chilled
Lemon, lime or orange slices

Combine drink mix and cranberry juice cocktail in large pitcher; stir to dissolve drink mix and chill well. Just before serving, stir in carbonated beverage; add fruit and serve over ice. Makes 2-1/4 quarts or 18 servings.

Apricot Ambush

3 scoops lemonade flavor drink mix
1 can (12 fl. oz.) apricot nectar
1 bottle (12 fl. oz.) lemon-lime carbonated beverage
Crushed ice

Combine drink mix and apricot nectar; stir until dissolved. Just before serving, add carbonated beverage and pour over ice. Makes 3 cups or 4 to 6 servings.

Romulus seniors hear energy tips

The president of the Romulus Senior Citizens Club No. 1, Vince Parratta, invited Cynthia Jankowski of the Energy Department of Communities United for Action (CUFA) to speak at the club's recent meeting. She told of the savings realized through the proper use of insulation, weather stripping and storm windows. She also suggested a change in life styles such as cooking and baking in large quantities at one time and freezing what isn't immediately used.

And, too, to save gas or electricity, make tea by putting teabags in a glass container, placing in the hot sun for three hours covered by a black plastic bag, and then cooling and refrigerating for iced tea.

Other recent speakers, Margaret Tubbs and Evelyn Kapanowski of Telecare, the Wayne County Office on Aging Telephone Reassurance Program, explained the operation of telephone reassurance. This group helps older persons who live alone to live independently. A telephone call once a day at a prearranged hour between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. provides a regular check on the person's well being. If no contact is made at that hour, a second and third call are made at 30 minute intervals, then a neighbor or relative is called to make a check. Senior citizens may request this service by calling 941-0666, Ext. 69 or 87.

The club's annual potluck picnic will be held July 25 in the Fox Woods area of Lower Huron Metro Park. Activities will get underway at 10 a.m. with dinner at 12 noon.

Angela Marie is a 'first'

Immediate grandparenthood was bestowed on three Romulus residents on June 12 when their first grandchild arrived at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne.

The 8 lb. - 8-3/4 oz.

infant made her debut at 10:23 a.m. and measured 21 1/4 inches in length.

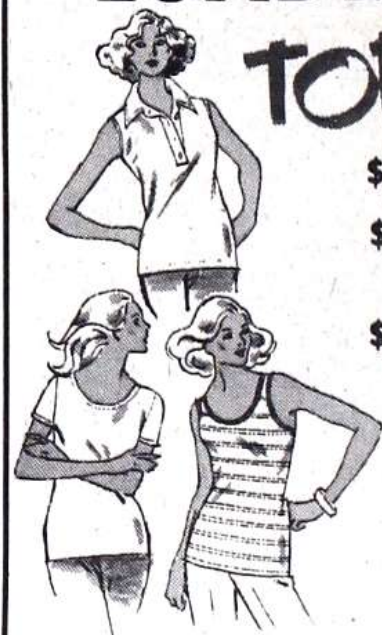

On hand to welcome his mom and new sister home was David Terry who's 4 1/2 years old.

The daughter of Dave and Diane Terry of 12387 Wahrman Rd., Romulus, the baby was titled "Angela Marie".

Those proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Ryznar and Henry Terry.

Kilgore-Gildner wed

Newlyweds take up residence in Canton

MR. AND MRS. TIMOTHY KILGORE

A 10-day honeymoon at Disney World in Florida followed the recent marriage of Barbara Lynne Gildner of Ann Arbor and Timothy Kilgore of Romulus. Since returning the newlyweds have taken up residence at 42232 Addison Dr., Apt. 104, in Canton.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Ann Arbor was the setting for the June 3 nuptial rite which united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Gildner of 500 Lansway, Ann Arbor, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Kilgore of 9348 Terry Dr., Romulus. Double ring vows were exchanged before The Rev. Parke Frederick at six o'clock in the evening with some 230 guests in attendance. For the occasion the altar was appointed with blue and white mums, carnations and daisies.

George Bufford, who was soloist, was accompanied at the organ by Herbert Garaske.

Escorted up the aisle by her father, Barbara appeared in a traditional white gown, the chiffon and lace creation featuring a cathedral-length train, long sleeves cuffed in lace and a Mandarin collar of lace and seed pearls above an illusion neckline frosted with lace appliques.

Her veil of bridal illusion, banded with lace appliques, drifted to cathedral length and her bouquet of miniature white carnations and roses was arranged in cascade style.

Mrs. Margie Jones came from Peoria, Ill. to serve as honor attendant. Her pale blue qiana gown was designed with a 3-tiered skirt and small capelet. Her headdress was comprised of carnations and baby's breath and her nosegay bouquet contained white carnations and daisies and light blue baby's breath.

Bridesmaids in identical costumes were Tammy Kilgore of Romulus, the bridegroom's sister; Mrs. Karen Tewers of Pottsville and Barbara Swanson of Plymouth. Their nosegays were made with blue carnations, white daisies and white baby's breath.

Child attendants were 8-year-old Scotty Kilgore, brother of the bridegroom, and 5-year-old Robin Jenkins, their cousin. Her light blue eyelet frock featured long sleeves and a ruffled skirt; her headpiece and flowers being similar to those of the bridesmaids.

Attending his cousin as best man was Randy Stapleton of Rossford, Ohio. Others on the esquire side were Douglas Gildner of Ann Arbor, brother of the bride; Mark Lewkowicz of Ann Arbor and John Bogotski of Romulus.

At the dinner-dance reception which followed at Roma's of Ann Arbor, the bride's mother greeted friends and relatives in a formal peach gown fashioned with a tiered skirt and peasant neckline. She was presented with a corsage of white carnations peach roses, and baby's breath. The same flowers, but all in white, made up the corsage which the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Kilgore, added to her sea green gown which was styled with a pleated skirt and long sleeves.

The new Mrs. Kilgore is currently working in the accounting department at Hydra-Matic Division of General Motors at Willow Run. A graduate of Eastern Michigan University, she holds a bachelor of business administration degree in accounting. While in school she affiliated with the Accounting Club, Stoic Society, Alpha Iota Delta and Beta Gamma Sigma.

Her husband, a Romulus High School alumnus currently attending Washtenaw Community College, is employed at the Alco Turning Company in Detroit.

The rehearsal dinner, hosted by the Isaac Kilgores, was held at the West Bank in Ann Arbor.

They'll wed in July

Debra Ann Oliver of Ann Arbor and Leonard C. Palnau of Belleville are engaged and making plans for their July 29 after date. The bride-elect, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Oliver of 4191 Woodland Dr. in the Loch Alpine Subdivision of Ann Arbor, is a 1972 graduate of Dexter High School. Her fiancé, who resides on Mott Road in Canton, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Palnau of 17160 Renton Rd., Belleville. A Belleville High School alumnus and graduate of Henry Ford Community College, he is employed by the Ford Motor Company. The young couple will exchange wedding vows in a garden ceremony to be held at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

Director of The Diet Workshop

Shortcuts.....
We all look for them. Some of us prefer the quick way home even if it includes the danger of falling off a cliff in the dark.
What brings this up is the surge of interest as revealed by my mail in the surgical way to lose weight. One year every other letter wanted to know about The Diet "Revolution". Another year, the fad of the moment is by-pass surgery.

Fortunately, we are not a country of do-it-yourself surgeons the way we are do-it-yourself dieters. Equally fortunately the doctors who do the surgery are very selective about the patients.

To be a candidate for by-pass surgery, you must be a failure. No surgeon will lift a scalpel unless the patient has failed many times at dieting while under a physician's care. In other words, it must be a hopeless case. By-pass surgery is major surgery, with all of the trauma that any major surgery inflicts upon the human body. It is not a cosmetic operation to improve one's appearance. It is a last ditch effort to rescue a body from inundation by fat.

The operation itself shortens the intestinal tract so that less food is absorbed by the body. Doing this also robs the body of the essential nutrients that the food would otherwise provide. By-pass patients receive vitamin and mineral supplements generously for this reason. And the weight does not disappear all in one large lump sum. It dissipates gradually over a long period of time.

My questions is—why not do the same thing with diet? A good diet brings about weight loss gradually over a period of time. The nutrition is supplied by the food, not the supplement. There is no surgeon's bill. There is no anesthesiologist to pay. No days are wasted in the hospital.

All weight loss should be supervised by your physician. I always check regularly with my doctor about my maintenance. But the very best weight loss in the world is still the program of three meals a day, completely balanced nutritionally. January is my month to celebrate it because it is the month of my rebirth.

Easy? Nothing worth doing is truly easy. Worth doing? You bet! On the other hand, it is not so difficult as it once was in the days before the nation's grocers stocked their shelves with ingredients that made diet cooking easy. For a smoothly simple dessert without danger of deserting your diet, here's a suggestion:

No-cal Milk Sherbet

1/2 cup evaporated skim milk
1 packet artificial sweetener
1 bottle low calorie soda any flavor
Combine ingredients and mix thoroughly. Pour into refrigerator tray and freeze to mush. Turn into a chilled bowl and beat rapidly until smooth and creamy. Return to tray and freeze until firm. You may vary the flavors to suit. You may vary the flavors to suit your fancy, and you may fancy it up with garnishes and garlands of fresh fruits in season.
The only sad thing about dieting without surgery is that no one sends you a get well card!

Kitchen Belles on program

The Belleville Kitchen Belles Band, a group affiliated with the Belleville Area Senior Citizens Club, presented several of its best musical numbers and a skit, "The Old Gray Mare", at the 1978 Senior Citizens' Variety Show June 16.

Held at the Gruber Auditorium in Eloise, the show was sponsored by the Wayne County Office on Aging and was attended by senior citizen groups from surrounding townships.

The 12 acts on the program included poetry reading, dancing, a magician show, singing and harmonica playing.

Although there were no judges to decide which acts were "best", the Kitchen Belles were delighted when their director Myrtle Wells was told that the coordinator and assisting staff considered the band's act "number 1", particularly because of its originality and bright, attractive uniforms.

Answers to your questions on cancer

(A regular feature, prepared by the American Cancer Society, to help save your life from cancer).

A gardener explains: "I am 58 and I am beginning to worry about getting

Right for a teacup

Small enough to grow comfortably in a teacup — that's the miniature sinningia (Sinningia speciosa).

These tiny relatives of the African violet rarely grow more than two inches tall. Michigan State University horticulturists suggest that they are ideal flowering plants for terrariums and mini-gardens.

The flowers of the miniature sinningias look like tiny, pastel-colored cornucopias rearing above the small mound of dark green leaves.

Pot these plants in a humusy soil made of equal parts peat moss and houseplant potting soil. Or use a prepared mixture for African violets. Water whenever the soil surface begins to feel dry to keep the soil around the roots moderately moist, but not soaking wet at all times. Fertilize every one or two months when the plants are actively growing.

Place sinningias where they will be exposed to humid air and bright, indirect light. Though they will survive in partial shade, they require bright light to flower.

After flowering, continue to water and fertilize to maintain growth. Unless they are kept under artificial light, the plants may go dormant during the winter. Reduce water and fertilizer until new growth starts.

Propagate by soft-wood, stem tip, or leaf cuttings.

cancer. What should I do?"

ANSWERLINE: Although cancer risk does increase with age, this is not a signal for you to worry, but a signal to have more regular, thorough physical checkups. Your doctor or clinic can advise you on what tests to have and how often. Please remember that early detection can help save your life should cancer develop.

A florist asks: "What are the warning signals of lung cancer?"

ANSWERLINE: Lung cancer develops over a long period of time and causes signs—a cough, a wheeze or a chest ache—which may be ignored as commonplace complaints. It is especially easy for a heavy smoker to ignore these signs and symptoms because he or she may be so used to living with a smoker's cough or shortness of breath.

The most common symptom—a cough—is likely to occur when a growing cancer blocks an airway. The smoker coughs as if trying to get rid of a foreign object in the lung; sometimes, the sputum contains streaks of blood. The second most common symptom is a persistent chest ache that may or may not be related to coughing.

Recurring attacks of pneumonia or bronchitis may also signal the presence of lung cancer. Since the signs of lung cancer are so common and so easily mistaken, it is important to have regular physical check-ups. If you are a cigarette smoker, you must consider yourself at risk of developing lung cancer and must be doubly vigilant by having regular checkups which may include chest x-rays and certain special tests.

If you are a cigarette smoker, it may help save your life to be under regular medical surveillance—and, of course, the best thing you can do to help yourself is to quit because lung cancer is almost always fatal. Both your physician and your local American Cancer Society Unit can help you in giving up cigarettes.

BY LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

At last week's P.A.L. Tournament on the rolling fairways of Wabek Country Club, it was a real thrill to see President Gerald R. Ford in person. A very trim man, he teamed with a pencil-slim Chi Chi Rodriguez; twinkly-eyed Joe Garagiola; dumpy J.P. McCarthy, and handsome R.B. McCurry Jr., founder of the invitational.

Chi Chi thrilled the expectant crowd by chipping out of a sand trap and into the cup for a birdie-3 on Number 15 and then going into his trade-mark sabre dance routine.

We all agreed that J.P. is much more impressive behind a mike (unseen, over the airwaves); that Bill Freehan (in Rod Curl's group) is surprisingly younger in the flesh and that Bill Bonds (teamed with Mac McClendon) was disappointingly uncoordinated in his golf togs.

It wasn't difficult to cull the pros from the novices — they were the ones without the Pabst paunches (Bud bellies?).

Ford drew the largest gallery with this year's winner, Hubert Green, and Tom Watson running a close second. A fun day!

There were no holes-in-one chalked up that day — on the Wabek course, that is. But at nearby Fox Hills Golf Club in Plymouth (during the annual Belleville Kiwanis-Rotary outing) the rare fete was accomplished by former Belleville Jack Paulsen, now of Ypsi.

And I stress the word "rare" since not everyone can ace a hole by knocking the ball into the cup on a NEIGHBORING green! We hear that Sam Lo Presto was one surprised Rotarian when, lining up his putt on number 7, he saw a little white object go bouncing by and into HIS target for a rather tricky hole-in-one — the HARD WAY! Way to go, Jack!

Here's a little something to figure out when you've nothing better to do. No, it's not copied from an eyechart, BUT, ironically, it WAS garnered from Dick Muse, our local optometrist. Ready?

FUNEX? S,VFX FUNEM? S,VFM. OK,MNX!
We'll run the solution in next week's column for those who're not able to decipher the puzzle.

Need a cream sauce in a hurry? For asparagus, broccoli, cauliflower, brussel sprouts? If you've some Hidden Valley salad dressing already mixed, warm a bit (about 1 tablespoon per serving) and ladle it over your vegetables. Tried it on asparagus spears the other night and it was great!

Speculation has it that the French peasant alleged to have created a deck of cards for the amusement of an old French king, used the calendar as the basis for his invention.

Consider these striking similarities:

There are four seasons in the year; there are four suits in the deck.

Each season contains 13 weeks — each suit contains 13 cards.

Fifty-two cards make a deck - 52 weeks make a year.

There are 365 days in the year and 365 spots on the cards.

Also, one wonders if he might have used hearts to represent love, diamonds wealth, spades labor and clubs social life.

At any rate, the unknown peasant created a perfect thing in his pack of cards — it has never been improved upon.

Well, I just wasn't able to wait for those suggestions on edible peapods. When the little great greens started production we were swamped! So — having steamed them atop a Chinese sauce last week and seeing how quickly they cooked, I devised my own method for preparing them for the freezer.

I washed them thoroughly, then plunged a few handfuls at a time into boiling water, leaving them in for a mere 20 seconds or so. On removal, they were put in ice water to cool immediately, then drained in a collander and again on paper toweling before putting in the deep freeze.

I've learned NOT to freeze them in plastic bags (or containers) at once since they tend to form little icy blocks. So — I lay them in rectangular cake pans (in a couple shallow layers) for freezing and the next day place them in bags. That way they are separate little pods and can be used a few at a time or which ever way you please.

Having experimented during the week, we had them steamed atop a bit of imitation butter salt atop and, again, steamed atop a pot roast. They picked up the flavor and were really delicious!

And they're still coming in....!

When you're cooking, it's often possible to make substitutions in your ingredients if you chance to run out. By using what you already have on hand, you save time AND money.

When you're caught short of a staple item, the following substitutions can save the day:

—1 teaspoon baking powder equals ¼ teaspoon baking soda plus ½ teaspoon cream of tartar.

—1 square (1 ounce) chocolate equals 3 tablespoons cocoa plus 1½ teaspoon shortening.

—1 tablespoon cornstarch equals 2 tablespoons flour.

—1 cup light cream equals ¾ cup milk plus 3 tablespoons butter (for cooking only).

—1 average-sized egg equals 2 egg yolks plus 1 tablespoon water, if used in baking recipe with flour; or 2 eggs yolks, if used in custards and puddings.

—1 tablespoon flour, for thickening, equals ½ tablespoon cornstarch or 2 teaspoons quick-cooking tapioca.

—1 cup sifted cake flour equals 1 cup all-purpose flour less 2 tablespoons.

—1 tablespoon chopped fresh herbs equals ½ teaspoon dried herbs.

—1 cup milk equals ½ cup evaporated milk plus ½ cup water, or 1 cup reconstituted nonfat dry milk plus 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, or 1 cup sour milk or buttermilk plus ½ teaspoon baking soda.

THE BOTTOM LINE: If for one minute you think you're disguising your dislike of a person, you'd better pay attention to the way your children react to that party. Kids reflect their parents' attitudes with frightening similarity!

They're engaged

The engagement of their daughter, Linda Jean Paris, and Edward Daniel Conrad is announced by Mr. and Mrs. William Paris of 14018 Hannan Rd., Romulus. At the present time, no wedding date has been selected.

Miss Paris, a graduate of Belleville High School's class of 1976, is employed at Dannon Yogurt in Romulus.

Her fiancé, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Conrad of 13130 Hannan Rd., Romulus, graduated from Belleville High School in 1975 and is currently a student at Washtenaw Community College. He also is employed by General Motors at Willow Run.

Couple to wed

An autumn wedding at St. Nicholas Greek Orthodox Church in Ann Arbor is being planned by Kathy Manikas of Ann Arbor and her fiancé, Curt Cullin of Louisville, Ky., formerly of Belleville. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Manikas of 731 Scio Church Rd., Ann Arbor, Miss Manikas works as a graduate assistant in the Department of Intramurals at Eastern Michigan University. A graduate of Pioneer High School in Ann Arbor, she holds a bachelor of science degree in physical education and dance from EMU and is now working towards her master's degree in administration there. The prospective bridegroom, now living at 11832 Olde Spring Road in Louisville, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Cullin of 123 E. Columbia Ave., Belleville. A Belleville High School alumnus, he is employed at Catalyst Technology in Buckner, Ky. The young couple plan an October 28 after date.

Susan Burcroff is recent MSU grad

Among the recent graduates at Michigan State University in East Lansing was Susan Loretta Burcroff of 3500 Grant Rd., Romulus, who earned a bachelor of science degree in home economics education. An honor student, who maintained a 3.74 grade average, she also was awarded a provisional vocational secondary education certificate.

A 1974 alumna of Romulus High School where she had a 3.76 grade average, she also attended Eastern Michigan University during the summers of 1975 and 1977 and Marion College in Marion, Ind. in 1974.

Miss Burcroff, who hopes to teach home economics education or family life education at the junior high or senior high level, did her student teaching at Huff Junior High School in Lincoln Park. Her internship teaching was completed at Otto Junior High School in Lansing.

While attending MSU, she served as vice-president of the Human Ecology Executive Council and was its by-laws chairman and also affiliated with the Campus Crusade for Christ; PhiKappa Phi, all-university honor society; Kappa Delta Pi, honor society for education; the Michigan Home Economics Association; National Council on Family Relations and Omnicron Nu, home economics honor society. She also was a member of the CC girls intramural softball and girls field hockey teams.

She was the recipient in 1977 of the Rosaline Mentzer Award for the outstanding senior in home economics at MSU. While at Romulus High, she was named the Outstanding Senior Girl; won the Betty Crocker and Crisco Awards as outstanding student in home economics; and was awarded a scholarship to Marion College.

The Microwave Way

If you are a microwave cook (or plan soon to become one), you can now begin a culinary adventure that combines the oldest with the very newest cooking tools.

Researchers for Litton microwave cooking products have developed the "simmer pot" — a clay pot designed especially for use in microwave ovens. The pot provides tender and tasty meals from less tender cuts of meat without marinating, tenderizing or all-day slow cooking.

These are just two of the delicious old-fashioned good recipes created by the company's home economists for the simmer pot.

COUNTRY POT ROAST

2½ to 3 lb. beef chuck roast
1 T. dried parsley flakes
1 T. Worcestershire sauce
½ tsp. garlic salt
¼ tsp. pepper
2 medium onions, quartered
2 stalks celery, cut into chunks
3 carrots, peeled and cut into chunks
6 to 8 small red potatoes.
Place roast in water-soaked clay pot. Sprinkle with seasonings. Cover with Water-soaked lid. Microwave for 15 minutes on high. Turn roast over; add vegetables and re-cover. Microwave for 50 to 55 minutes on simmer or until meat and vegetables are tender. Let stand, covered, 5 minutes before serving. About four servings.

SCANDINAVIAN FRUIT SOUP

¼ cup pearl tapioca
two-thirds cup water
2 packages (8 oz. each) mixed dried fruit
½ cup dark raisins
½ orange, thinly sliced
1 lemon, halved and thinly sliced
3 cinnamon sticks
¼ cup packed brown sugar
2 cups apricot nectar
2 cups water
Soak pearl tapioca in water overnight. Place tapioca in water-soaked clay pot; stir in remaining ingredients. Cover with water-soaked lid. Microwave for 10 minutes on high. Stir well; re-cover. Microwave for 60 to 70 minutes on simmer or until tapioca is soft. Remove cinnamon sticks. Let stand, covered, 5 minutes before serving. Also great as a dessert. Six servings.

WHO CAN HELP ME, HAROLD REDISKE JR. IF DEATH OCCURS AWAY-FROM-HOME?

When the death of a loved one occurs away from home, call us right away, even if it is long distance, day or night. We can help make arrangements for immediate care of the deceased, quite possibly saving you considerably in duplicated expenses.

If the services and burial will take place at home, we will make arrangements for transportation and escorts back to our funeral home, if that be your wish.

If you prefer, we can make provisions for burial at the location of death or elsewhere. Through our affiliations with funeral homes throughout the country we can help you make the best and most logical arrangements. Often we know personally funeral directors elsewhere in whom we place great trust.

These services can include use of funeral home, graveside services, burial and transportation of the family, casket and flowers to the gravesite. All arrangements are made exactly to your desires, but we need to know your wishes early in the planning stages. Should you ever be confronted with a death away from home, the only thing you need to remember is to phone us, night or day. We will serve you with the same concern and care for your comforts we are known for right here at home.

Up With People returns to Meadow Brook

The internationally acclaimed musical spectacular Up With People will be returning for the third year to perform as a part of the Meadow Brook Festival Pop Concert Series.

A multitalented, youthful company of 80 singers, dancers and musicians will present their exciting new show at the Meadow Brook Pavilion Sunday at 7:30 p.m. Following the two-hour production Meadow Brook will feature a special Independence Day candle lighting ceremony and fireworks display.

The gates will open at 5:30 p.m. for picnics. During the past year, five Up With People casts, with a total of more than 400 student performers have toured in some ten countries in Europe, Latin America, the Orient and North America. They have given hundreds of performances in concert halls, arenas, stadiums, parks and a special events.

Recently a cast of 35 returned from a three-week tour of the People's Republic of China where they received an outstanding welcome. They performed for students, factory workers and city officials in six major cities including Peking. The cast was the first international group of student performers to tour the country since 1949.

Since its inception, Up With People casts have performed in more than 40 countries for more than 500 million people. They've been featured on national television in a dozen countries.

As one reviewer put it, "Their impact is electric, instantaneous. They do not ease into their performance with a gentle warm-up; they ignite it in a burst of musical combustion."

The Up With People show is professionally arranged, directed, and choreographed. It includes a wide array of original, contemporary and traditional songs and dances all backed by an instrumental section of guitars, percussion, piano and brass. The show attempts to reflect the diversity of talent, creativity and energy that can be found worldwide among young people.

In addition to performing, the Up With People cast members are involved in a wide variety of educational activities during the course of their year with the program. They do their own stage work, promotion and day-to-day logistics and may work on college credits with the University of Arizona or through a program of independent study.

Wherever they tour, the cast members live in homes with local host families during their visit.

During the cast's time in Detroit they will also be performing Friday at 9 p.m. in the Hart Plaza as part of the International Freedom Festival Activities.

They also will be interviewing young Detroit area students who might like to find out more about how they could participate for a year in Up With People.

Up With People is an international, nonprofit, educational organization, with offices in Tucson, Ariz.; Oslo, Norway; and Caracas, Venezuela. The organization endeavors to establish a unique format for education and interaction between people of different cultures, nationalities, ages and races. While demanding from its participants their very best, it gives them invaluable experience in communication, leadership and responsibility.

For ticket information on Up With People's appearance in Detroit, contact Meadow Brook at 377-2010.

Fireworks top 5-day '78 Freedom Festival

Americans and Canadians — more than a million strong — will join in a celebration of their free heritage in the five-day International Freedom Festival Friday through July 4 in these border cities.

Centering on the American July 4 Independence Day and Canada's July 1 Dominion Day, the celebration of friendship will be observed in the two communities and on the Detroit River, part of the longest unprotected border in the world.

The Detroit-Windsor area, site of colonial struggles between Britain and France three centuries ago, now is the setting for scores of athletic events, parades, exhibits, demonstrations, shows, regattas, tournaments, races, picnics, concerts, ceremonies and religious services.

Among the festival's more than 75 colorful events are a spectacular fireworks display Friday which draws a half-million viewers to both sides of the river and an international tugboat race July 1 pitting the fastest of the Canadian and American workhorses against the choppy river and each other.

An international ethnic festival will be held during festival week at Detroit's new Philip A. Hart Plaza, a $30-million riverfront plaza with a futuristic, computerized fountain capable of creating thousands of different "water sculptures," from mist to fog to dramatic swooshes. The plaza has been two years in the making and is expected to be one of the most exciting downtown spaces in America.

American Independence Day Celebrations include an Independence Torchlight concert at Historic Fort Wayne the evening of July 3 and the Southwest Detroit Parade July 4.

Besides the tugboat race, the river will be the site of dozens of water events, including a rowing regatta, power boat parade, air-sea rescue demonstration and a moonlight cruise from downtown Detroit to Bob-Lo Island in the Canadian waters of Lake Erie.

In the sky over the river, attractions include a skydiving exhibition and air show by The Canadian Air Force's "Sky Hawks" and an aerobatics show featuring World War I Spitfire fighter planes.

Downtown Windsor, which is a two-minute car or bus ride from Detroit by tunnel or bridge, will be the scene of an arts and crafts festival, band and drum corps competition, French Canadian outdoor folk concerts, street dancing, a "Great Bed Race" and pancake breakfast, pipe and tattoo performance, and free rides on a wagon drawn by a team of Belgian draft horses.

In Detroit, athletic events abound. Baseball's Toronto Blue Jays will play the Detroit Tigers at Tiger Stadium. Other events include a day-long athletic competition at Tiger Stadium. Other events include a day-long athletic competition at Detroit's Belle Isle, a 1,000-acre park in the Detroit River, a Pepsi-Cola Skateboard Safety exhibition and a 10-mile foot race from Belle Isle to downtown Detroit.

Also running during the International Freedom Festival is Detroit's oldest ethnic festival, the Greek Festival, which annually draws thousands to the quaint greektown district a few blocks north of the river.

A key element of the celebration is the presentation of the Freedom Award, which is given to a person or organization making "a distinguished contribution to the cause of world peace and freedom." Past recipients of the award include former Canadian Prime Minister Lester Pearson, the late U. S. President John F. Kennedy, radio commentator Lowell Thomas and CARE of Canada.

High in the sky

The Hudson's-Stroh's fireworks extravaganza will again be the "crowning jewel" in the events planned for the Detroit-Windsor International Freedom Festival, Friday through July 4. This year's fireworks display will begin downtown at dusk on Friday and will conclude after several tons of colorful starbursts have been shot into the night sky from barges on the Detroit River. In case of bad weather, everything will be rescheduled for July 1. The fireworks is only one of more than 75 festival events.

Summer Theatre Festival opens July 5 at WSU

Three shows will open Wayne State University's Eighth Summer Theatre Festival on July 5 at the Hilberry Theatre.

"The Amorous Flea," the Hilberry Repertory Company's musical production that participated in the American College Theatre Festival this spring in Washington, D.C., is being revived in the Hilberry Theatre at 8:30 p.m. Washington Star critic David Richards called it "a disarmingly merry production... as entertaining as anything that has played the Kennedy Center this year."

"The Chronicles of Bohikee Creek" by Robert Unger also plays at 8:30 p.m. in the Studio Theatre downstairs. A presentation of the festival's Black Theatre Company, "Bohikee Creek" is a series of four vignettes about life along a South Carolina creek.

"Step on a Crack," a children's play by Suzan Zeder, opens upstairs at 10:30 a.m., performed by the Hilberry Company.

"The Amorous Flea," a musical version of Moliere's "The School for Wives," brings back Erick Devine, Cynthia Dozier and Bruce Matley in the leading roles. Also in the cast are Gerald B. Roe, Dianne Winslow, George Christopher Kappaz, Mark Robbins and Richard Goodwin. Direction is by Robert T. Hazzard, with setting by Russell Smith, costumes by Ellen Ryba and lighting by Gary M. Witt.

The four vignettes in "Bohikee Creek," are connected by the same locale. New York critics praised the work, Unger's first, at the off-Broadway opening in 1966. Theophilus Lewis described the play as "caviar to the Broadway clientele" and added that "mature theatregoers will savor the vignettes as dramatic delicacies." "Bohikee Creek" is directed by Martin Molson. The acting ensemble includes Fred Bennett, R.J. Warren, Deborah Lynn Patrick, Von Washington, Clyde T. Harper and Ronny Lee Woodson.

Author Suzan Zeder describes

Ellie, the child at the center of "Step on a Crack," as "a funny, crazy, wildly imaginative child who arms herself with a full-blown fantasy life to fight her way through real life problems." The play is about Ellie's difficulty adjusting to a new step-mother, a problem "as classic as Cinderella and as timely as tomorrow." In the role of Ellie is Cynthia Dozier. Others in the cast include Jim Birdsall, Dianne Winslow, Mary Ottman, John L. Beem and Von Washington, all members of the Hilberry company. The play is directed by Gary M. Witt.

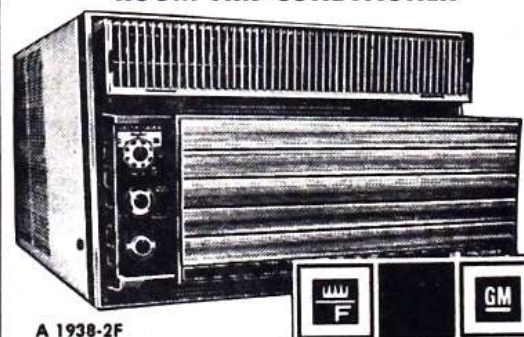

The Summer Festival also will include Agatha Christie's "Ten Little Indians," Alan Ayckbourn's "How the Other Half Loves," Tom Stoppard's "The Real Inspector Hound," Noel Coward's "Red Peppers" and The Paw Paw Puppet Theatre.

Brochures and ticket information are available from the Hilberry Theatre Box Office, Cass and Hancock, or by calling 577-2972.

'Nova' repeats 'Green'

The incredible powers of plants are closely examined on a repeat showing of "Nova" July 12 at 8 p.m. on Channel 56.

Three years ago, the National Geographic Special, "The Incredible Machine", used special photographic techniques for a fascinating look at the human body. Now the same type of camera work is used for a close-up of the world of plants. "The Green Machine" is an hour-long look at the remarkable abilities of plants. Not only is it shown that a tree can manufacture food from sunlight and defy gravity by pumping water from the roots to the uppermost branches, but also some scientists now claim that plants respond to pain and can read human minds.

Cleve Backster is one of America's foremost experts in lie detection. In an experiment conducted for "Nova," viewers can draw their own conclusions. Backster attached lie detector electrodes to a leaf and records the reaction as he thinks of injuring a radish by ripping it apart in a vegetable shredder. From such experiments he has concluded that plants have extrasensory powers. Another theory has been suggested by Franklin Loehr, California minister. His experiments in which he talks to and encourages a target group of seeds, while ignoring and discouraging a control group, have led him to conclude that there is a rapport between plants and humans which affects plant growth. Botanists reject these ideas. Yet it may be that ESP and sensitivity to words would be no more miraculous than the ability to convert light to food or push through gallons of water without a pump. "Nova" is underwritten locally by Parke, Davis & Co.

Boat rentals available

Stony Creek Metropark near Rochester-Utica now offers boat rental service for persons using Stony Creek Lake.

Three different craft available are catamaran sailboats, and paddleboats, small craft that accommodates two persons and are operated by a bike-type paddle. The rates for both craft are the same—Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, $6 per hour; Monday through Friday, $6 per hour for the first hour and $3 for each additional hour.

Aluminum canoes that accommodate two persons are available Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, $3.50 per hour, and Monday through Friday, $3 per hour.

A deposit of $20 is required, or $10 with driver's license. The deposit includes use of life jackets and other equipment. The boat rental site is located at the Mt. Vernon Picnic Area. Rental hours start at 9 a.m. on weekends and holidays, daily at 10 a.m. For additional details phone 781-6742 (rental site) or 781-4242 (park office).

Put them outdoors

Give houseplants a summer vacation

Houseplants suffering from the low-light blues may benefit greatly from a summer outdoors. But, for plants doing just fine inside, a summer vacation may carry more risks than benefits.

Michigan State University Extension horticulturists agree that most houseplants—except African violets and their close relatives—can be set outdoors after the danger of late spring frost is past. They point out, however, that the dangers of plants' being stolen, damaged by animals or weather, infested by insects or infected by diseases may not be worth the flush of new growth.

In fact, the new growth itself may not be so desirable. Houseplants placed outdoors for the summer may double in size. This may mean a lot of repotting, with the attendant mess and expense, and result in a flock of plants that have outgrown their indoor spaces.

On the other hand, if a plant is doing poorly indoors, placing it outdoors may just bring it back to good health.

Check for cramped roots with plants to be set outdoors. Repotting gives plants room to grow. And it may do a lot to improve general plant growth.

Set pots outdoors in a shady, protected spot. Even in the shade, plants will get more light outdoors than they receive indoors in a sunny window. Another reason to avoid direct sun, especially late afternoon rays, is that most houseplants get sunburned very easily.

For the first few days, leave the plants outside only for a couple of hours. Gradually increase the time as they become adjusted to the outdoor climate.

To keep pots from drying out rapidly and blowing over on windy days, bury them up to the rims in a shady garden spot. They should still be checked every day and watered as necessary. When severe weather threatens, it's a good idea to take the plants indoors.

Insects are an inescapable reality of plant life outdoors. You can limit the potential for insect problems by setting plants some distance from flower beds, shrubs and vegetables and their insect populations.

As a preventive measure, spray houseplants every 10-14 days with a general purpose household insecticide. Be sure to read the label before you spray, the horticulturists warn. Some houseplants are extremely susceptible to chemical burn from certain insecticide ingredients, and exposure to bright light may worsen the damage.

If you prefer not to spray with chemicals, try washing the leaves frequently with warm water. This may discourage insects so that spraying is not needed.

Because plants will grow rapidly while they're outdoors, they'll need more fertilizer than they'd need indoors. Follow the manufacturer's directions to avoid overfertilizing. This, too, can damage plants.

At the end of the summer, check plants carefully for insects and signs of disease. Treat plants with problems at once, and keep them isolated from insect and disease-free plants until you're sure they're problem-free, too. In the home, without their natural enemies to keep numbers down, a few pesky insects can quickly multiply into a full-scale invasion that may be very difficult to put down.

The move from the bright light outdoors to the low light levels of the average home may come as quite a shock to your vigorously growing houseplants, the MSU experts pointed out. Leaf drop may occur as plants try to adjust. Giving them artificial light may reduce the shock of transition and keep them growing well into winter.

The Garden Corner

Michigan State University Extension specialists answer timely questions on vegetable gardening, houseplants, insect pests and related topics.

Q: I planted quite a bit of sweet corn this year. Just as it started to come up, most of it was chewed off at ground level. I want to replant, but not until I know what it was that ate my corn and what to do about it.

A: It sounds like a classic case of cutworm damage. These hairless caterpillars live in the soil, coming out at night to nip off tender transplants and seedlings. Homemade cardboard cutworm collars often are recommended for control of these pests. Cut a four-inch wide strip of cardboard, make it into a ring and set down around a plant, pushing about one inch of the ring into the soil. Cutworms emerging from the soil and looking for a late night snack will be foiled by the barrier.

Q: I want to avoid using chemical pesticides in my garden whenever possible. Are there any biological controls for slugs?

A: Some snakes commonly feed on slugs. If you prefer snakes to slugs, try importing garter snakes. If the cure seems worse than the problem, try making slug traps instead. Water the garden, then throw some boards down on the ground between the rows. The slugs will crawl under them to shelter from the sun. All you have to do is pick up the boards and let the sun kill the pests. Slug traps work better if the slugs can't find an alternative hiding place, so be sure to remove garden mulches before you set out your traps.

Q: What's the difference between a pesticide and a herbicide?

A: Pesticide is a general term that refers to all chemicals used to control pests, whether they be weeds (herbicide), insects (insecticide), rodents (rodenticide), etc.

Q: I still have some of the potatoes I grew in my garden last year. They're sprouting all over the place. Could I use them for seed for this year's garden?

A: You can—but you might be better off not to. Many plant diseases can be carried over from year to year on seed. You might find that last year's minor problems readily become this year's major ones. You're better off to use certified seed potatoes to minimize your chances of disease problems.

Q: I recently bought a farm home. The spot I plowed up for my vegetable garden was a corn field last year. Now I'm wondering if planting vegetables after corn is going to pose any problems.

A: The most likely problem is carryover of herbicides. The herbicides usually used in field corn will not affect sweet corn, but will cause dwarfing and stunting of broadleaved crops, which include vegetables. The vegetables would be safe to eat, but the plants would be misshapen and stunted and yields would most likely be low. Unless you know that no herbicide was used, or that one was used which does not carry over, it probably would be a good idea to hold off a year on your garden.

Q: Can I use lawn clippings as mulch in my vegetable garden?

A: Yes—provided you don't use them within two weeks of applying a lawn herbicide. The weed killer on the clippings can harm tomatoes and other sensitive garden crops. If you do mulch with grass clippings, use them in thin layers—1-2 inches. Deep mats of clippings tend to get rather smelly.

Q: What can I do with the sprouting onions in my basement?

A: You could plant a few of them, just for fun. You won't get onion bulbs this year—they'll produce a flower and a globular seed head instead. You could even save the seeds and carry your experiment into next year by planting the seeds and harvesting a crop from them.

Q: What does it mean to pinch a plant?

A: Pinching means to break or cut off a portion of a growing tip or shoot. It usually is done to encourage the plant to branch.

Sod webworm is lawn's biggest woe

By the end of last summer, a lot of Michigan lawns looked dry and brown. Part of this problem was heat and drought. Another big factor was the sod webworm.

According to Keith Kennedy, entomologist at Michigan State University, the sod webworm was Michigan's biggest lawn insect problem last year. Although lawns now look lush, green and healthy, sod webworms that spent the winter in the soil already are feeding there.

These pests, now in the caterpillar or larval stage, will pupate and emerge as adults probably in early to mid-June this year, Kennedy said. (This is a little later than usual because of the cool weather so far this spring.) These adults then will mate and lay eggs, which will hatch within a week or so and then start the cycle all over again. Several generations may be completed in one summer.

Sod webworms do their damage to lawns while they're in the larval stage. Larvae—cream-colored or light grayish brown caterpillars with dark spots on their bodies and dark head capsules—feed at night on grass blades at or just above the soil level. They may spin silken webs and, as they grow, they form silken tunnels close to the soil surface.

The first signs of feeding damage are irregular brown spots. If larvae are present in large numbers, turf may become completely brown and even die, especially if it's under stress from hot, dry weather.

Kennedy pointed out that white grubs also may kill grass by feeding on the roots. Some turfgrass diseases cause brown spots, too, and drought injury may be mistaken for sod webworm feeding.

Before spraying for sod webworms, make sure that's the problem. Check the grass near the soil surface, as well as the thatch the soil for an inch or so below the surface.

Fresh green clippings, green fecal pellets and silken tubes or webbing indicate the sod webworm is the problem. If no evidence of feeding or larvae is found, the damage you see is due to some other cause.

The presence of sod webworm adults may also be a clue, he noted. These are the grayish-tan "millers" often seen fluttering around porch lights or flitting erratically across the lawn around sundown. They are about one-half to three-fourths inch long. At rest, they fold their wings around the body.

To minimize the potential for damage by sod webworms, keep the lawn healthy.

Money Market Certificate

This new Money Market Certificate enables you to earn the same rate for the same term as six-month U.S. Treasury bills. The certificate is issued for a 26-week maturity in amounts of $10,000 or more at a rate which is constant for the term of your certificate. It is established weekly, and is equal to the average yield for six-month Treasury bills in the most recent weekly auction. On May 22 the rate was 7.14%.

Your funds are available at maturity without penalty, when you can choose a new Money Market Certificate at the then prevailing rate.* For more details on how this certificate can work for you, and for the current rate, please call us at 283-5000.

7³/₄% Certificate of Deposit

Earn 7³/₄% annually on $1,000 or more with this all-new 8-year* Security Certificate of Deposit. It's an ideal plan for a guaranteed high return over a long term. Interest is paid semi-annually.

8% IRA Account

Now all Security Bank IRA deposits earn 8% interest, compounded quarterly, yielding 8.24% annually. The new rate became effective for all new and existing Individual Retirement Custodial Accounts on June 6. Security's IRA accounts feature a $25 minimum deposit, have a three-year maturity* and are automatically renewable.

For complete information on qualifications, maximum annual contributions and tax-saving features, call or visit your nearest Security office.

*Federal law and regulation prohibit the payment of a time deposit prior to maturity unless three months of the interest thereon is forfeited and interest on the amount withdrawn is reduced to the passbook rate.

SCOTTY COLLINS

JIM CANFIELD

SCOTT DAWSON

BRUCE PIPER

TONY SMITH

Never been All-Area team like this College, pro baseball scouts want these players

It isn't often that a high school baseball team can attract the attention of both the college and pro scouts, but the 1978 Associated

Newspapers' All-Area line-up has done just that. Standouts such as Plymouth Canton's Scotty Collins and Wayne

Memorial's Jim Canfield have been drafted by the pros, while at least a dozen or more ANP players have received full ride scholarships to colleges and universities across the nation.

Many of the members of this year's elite club, who are juniors, also have drawn the attention of pro and college scouts and these players still have a year of high school eligibility ahead of them.

The ANP's pitching staff made up of Canfield, Scott Dawson (Plymouth Canton), Bruce Piper (Plymouth Salem), Brian James (Plymouth Canton), and Tony Smith (Inkster) has a combined record of 46-9.

Meanwhile, every member of the elite team finished the 1978 campaign with a .300 or better batting average with the exception of one.

To complement an explosive pitching staff, the ANP has drafted four outstanding catchers, namely, Jeff Campbell (Plymouth Canton), Jim Wilson (Livonia Franklin), John Mervyn (John Glenn), and Mike Williams (Romulus).

The infield, anchored by Collins, is made up of standouts Ron Sosnowski (Cherry Hill), Bob Waite (Plymouth Salem) and Craig Walker (John Glenn).

Eight players are on the roster as outfielders and the line-up includes: Russ Mandle (Plymouth Canton), Jim Irwin (John Glenn), Joe Goodsir (Plymouth Salem), John Bozelak (Romulus), Ron Reeter (Livonia Franklin), Greg Stano (Wayne Memorial), Mark Korte (Wayne Memorial) and Dan Skyles (Belleville).

To handle the managerial job, the ANP has enlisted the services of Plymouth Canton's veteran coach Fred Crissey who guided his team to an outstanding 26-5 record, losing to Class A state champ, Flint Southwestern in the semi-final round of the state playoffs by the narrow margin of 1-0.

Collins, who batted a hefty .482 this season, was picked up by the Baltimore Orioles in the eighth round of the summer free-agent draft, but whether Scotty will sign with the pros or head for Missouri where he has a full-ride athletic scholarship waiting for him is pure speculation.

"His attitude and coachability are probably his greatest assets," pointed out Collins' coach for the past three years, Canton's Fred Crissey. "His .482 batting average speaks for itself, but Scotty is also a tremendous defensive player and he definitely has a great future in baseball."

The 5-10 shortstop knocked in 24 runs this season, (and he did this as the Chiefs' leadoff man) and collected 44 hits this year after getting 46 a year ago. His career record is 106 hits (a record) for three seasons.

Don't wait to enter City Golf Tournament

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

If you're thinking about entering the 1978 City Championship Golf Tournament next month, don't wait to send in your entry blank - you may be shut out.

As in the past, the tournament will be open to the first 100 golfers who sign up. The limit is necessitated because of the number of tee off times made available by the golf course management.

"We have an obligation to those golfers who regularly use the course," said Tom Ross, the manager of the course. "Though we would like to accommodate as many of the golfers who annually play in this tournament, we have to place a limit in order to reserve tee times for our regular golfers."

In the past up to 145 golfers have competed in the City Championship Tournament which determined the city titles for the following cities:

Wayne, Westland, Garden City, Canton Township and Inkster.

This year's tournament will be staged Saturday and Sunday, July 22-23 at Fellow's Creek which is located at 2936 Lotz Road in Canton Township.

The golfers will play 18 holes on Saturday and come back the following day for the championship and flight competitions.

Because the course is charging $7.50 per day, ($15.00 per person for the two days), the entry fee this year has been hiked to $17.50 to cover green's fees and the expense for trophies.

There will be a medalist trophy for the tournament winner and also trophies for those who finish first, second and third in each flight. Additional flight competitions will be held for each city only if the total entry from that city is sufficient.

Also, in case of a tie for a trophy, a

Vicchy: all or nothing at all

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

For better or worst, Sam Vicchy never was one to restrain himself or "play politics" as the cliché goes on any controversial issue.

A chemistry teacher who has made Belleville a respected adversary in swimming, Vicchy isn't appeased easily with "half solutions" or "cheating our kids would it comes to an all-around education."

So, when the Van Buren School Board, which dertermines the destiny of the students at Belleville High, decided not to earmark some of the recently awarded monies from a millage election for the restoration of athletic programs, Vicchy and seven other coaches submitted resignations.

SAM VICCHY

The board subsequently resolved some of the differences between the '8' and itself, but, according to Vicchy, "it isn't enough."

"I have had it," announced Vicchy. "I have resigned and I don't intend going back until we get an entire athletic program for our students."

Vicchy pointed out that the board had rescinded on some of its previous actions and reinstated some of the coaches and rehired some of the assistant coaches who were on the cutback block.

"Because the board made a movement in this direction to rehire the assistant coaches," Vicchy said, "those who had submitted their resignations apparently felt that they had achieved what they were after and returned to the flock."

"My assistant coach also was rehired, but I want to see a total athletic program and if we can't have a total athletic program, then we shouldn't have a program at all."

Vicchy also said that he had a philosophy about athletics and apparently the school board doesn't, "for I have never seen anything written about how they feel about athletics."

Another board action that has caused some irritation to Vicchy is the new policy approved by the board to charge outside groups, though they reside in the school district, to reimburse the school district for the use of school facilities, namely, the swimming pool, football field and baseball diamond.

"Eight years ago we organized an age group swim club (The Tiger Swim Club) made up of youngsters from our junior high and elementary schools and I feel these kids are as competitive as any in the state."

"Now the school board, by their new policy, is pricing us right out of existence. Our kids and their parents have had many good and positive experiences thanks to the swim club and our program, the board will kill this."

When Vicchy arrived in Belleville eight years ago from Kent State, he inherited a swim program that was equivalent to "nearly zero" and encouraged by parental participation and hard work by himself and his assistants, the Tigers have emerged as one of the most respected powers in the area.

In fact, Vicchy has won more Western Wayne Swimming and Diving Invationals than any other area coach and his swimmers have been among the best in one of the toughest leagues in the state -- the Suburban 8 Conference where Dearborn, Edsel Ford and Plymouth Salem are packed together with the local tankers.

It would be a shame to lose Vicchy

The decline of the Suburban 8

Speaking of Dearborn and Edsel Ford, it's going to be interesting to see what the board of education in Dearborn will do to thwart a revolution by its high school and junior high school athletes.

The voters gave the board a 21-mill renewal levy, but they turned with the ball—he's a hard hitter," said Gillies, "and his bat made a great difference to us this year. He also is a top notch defensive player and will be heading for Prescott, Arizona to play ball."

Walker has set all kinds of baseball records at John Glenn. As a sophomore he shattered Lenny Anderson's batting mark, hitting .340 in his first year in a Rocket uniform. Last year as a junior, the rugged Glenn infielder batted .330 and during the recently concluded campaign he wound up with a .367 mark as he appeared 90 times at the plate, scored 23 runs, got 33 hits and 12 RBIs, second doubles, a triple and was a perfect 10 for 10 in stealing bases.

"He is one of the best all-around players I have ever coached," offered Hoenes who has been around sandlot and prep diamonds for over a decade.

Skyles was one of the bright spots in a rather dismal Belleville High baseball year. The senior outfielder batted .333 and managed to hit safely in each of the 14 Suburban 8 Conference games.

Despite a seventh-place Belleville finish in the league, Skyles earned the respect of the coaches in the conference and was named to the All-League team.

"If we had more players like Skyles there is no doubt in my mind that we would have finished better than 7-12," said Tiger coach Dan Fisher. "He helped us over some rough spots."

Irwin was named as John Glenn's "Outstanding Athlete of the Year." His efforts on the baseball diamond helped him earn that coveted title.

The 17-year-old outfielder batted .91 times in 1978, scored 17 runs, collected 34 hits, had 23 RBIs, eight doubles, five triples, one homer and successfully stole 13 of 13 times.

Irwin finished his prep career with a .374 batting average and he'll head for Ypsilanti in the fall where he has signed a letter of intent to enroll at Eastern Michigan University.

"Jim has an abundance of natural ability and when he gets some college experience under his belt, I'm sure there will be a lot of pro scouts hounding him," said Hoenes. "He's one player that can do everything."

Bozelak had an incredible junior season as the 5-11, 165-pound outfielder swatted the ball around the field at a .390 clip.

"He came through for us in the clutch situation and his competitiveness helped us through a year that was marred by injuries and delays," said Stoh. "The one good thing is that John is back next year and he can help form the nucleus of what I feel will be one of our better teams."

Korte was both a designated hitter and outfielder for Coach Jim Chronowski's Zebras who posted a 19-9 over-all record and were one victory shy of salvaging a share of the Great Lakes 8 Conference championship.

A junior, Korte batted .333 for the season for 75 at bats which included 25 hits, 17 singles, five doubles, two triples and a homer. Mark also knocked in 12 runs.

Stano had an incredible .385 for his 52 at bats and 7 RBIs, two triples and he also homered once. He has been a member of Chronowski's varsity crew for the past two years.

Goodsir, a speedy baserunner who stole bases successfully 22 times, contributed much to the success of the Salem cause. He batted .419, one of the few players to finish the 1978 campaign with a .400 or better batting average. Named as an all-leaguer, Joe also was a two-year starter for Gillies and the team's tri-captain.

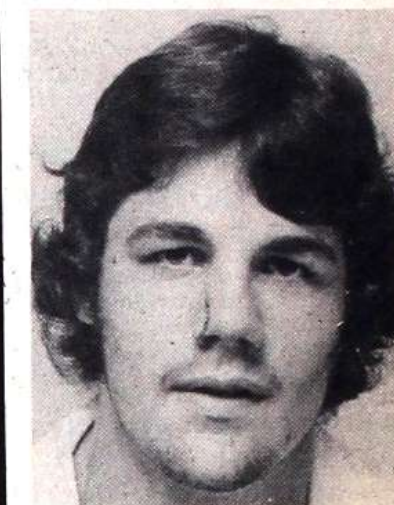

"He was a team leader," Gillies pointed out, "and he contributed with his bat, in the outfield on defense and gave us the psychological lift when we needed it."

Reeter was Franklin's co-captain and his contributions to the Patriots' success included a .310 batting average compiled on a 22 hits and 71 at bats basis. He also knew when to go on the base paths as he stole 11 of 11 for a perfect year. Ron also had 11 RBIs and scored 13 runs for the Livonians.

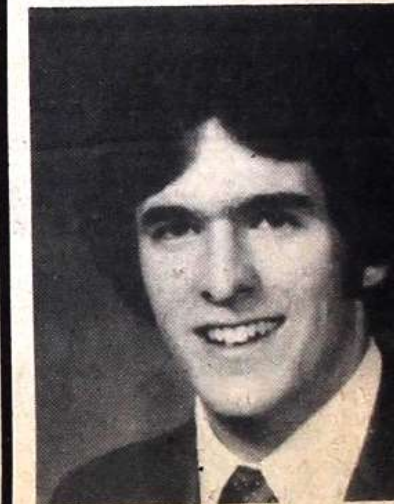

And that completes the lineup whose players are definitely the collegiate and pro stars of the future.

3 remain tied for 1st in golf

The struggle continues for the coveted top of the standings spot in the Canton Women's Golf League.

And neither Lou Skotzke, Bev Green or Pauline Pryor want to loosen their grip on first place as all three are tied for first place after six weeks of competition at Fellows' Creek.

Trailing behind the pacesetters by one point is Silvia Dickinson.

One of the highlights of the past week was Kay Nichols' game. She checked in with a 42, her best nine for the season. The performance also bettered the league record by five strokes, set a week ago by Mrs. Green.

Helen McGee shot a 57, a personal best score, and the scores should tumble as the weeks pass.

ANP honors baseball mentor

It's Canton Coach Crissey's year

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

The amalgam of young baseball talent that Coach Fred Crissey appears to attract each Spring isn't by coincidence.

There is a rational and logic behind everything that happens on the diamond at Plymouth Canton High where Crissey has a propensity for producing winners who eventually find their way into the college and pro ranks.

In fact, Crissey's lifetime record as the Canton baseball mentor is 99 wins and 28 losses over a span of five years and during that period at least 14 of his players, excluding this year's fine crop, have earned full ride scholarships and at least two, Tom Close and Scotty Collins have signed or can sign pro contracts.

What is the reason behind Crissey's incredible success?

"Well, for one, we don't wait for the season to begin in order to get ready for a season," revealed Crissey who clarified the complex sentence by explaining:

"If you wait for the season to begin to get ready you'll lose," Crissey said. "Baseball has to be a year around thing. I coach Connie Mack and Mickey Mantle ball and these kids play together all summer.

"In the fall and winter I still keep an eye on my players to see what they're doing."

"My kids have a commitment and dedication to baseball that helps solidify individuals into one solid team," he added.

Crissey's philosophy and hard work obviously have paid off. His Chiefs this year finished with a 26-5 won-lost record, picked up conference, district and regional championships and lost only to Class A state champs, Flint Southwestern, 1-0, in the post-season playoffs.

Though it's pure speculation, there is little doubt that if Canton would have edged past Flint, the Big Bill's is hosts

Top women's softball teams converge on Wayne

Some of the top women's softball teams in the state and nation will converge upon Wayne to compete in the second annual slo-pitch tournament which will be held Saturday and Sunday, July 1 and 2, at Attwood Park, Howe Road and Annapolis.

At stake is a berth for the World Tournament that will be staged over the Labor Day weekend in Southgate. The winner of the Wayne tournament will automatically qualify for the world tournament.

"We have a good shot at qualifying for the world tournament," said Bill Schwartz, manager of Big Bill's whose team is undefeated presently in the Sunday night Westland Open League. "However, we're going to have to play flawless ball in order to survive."

Schwartz pointed out that teams such as the Stingers (out of Redford) and Little Caesar's of Royal Oak, who will be in the local tournament, are ranked among the best in the state and nation.

Other teams entered in the two-day competition include Goodnough (Monroe), Adray Appliance (Dearborn), Athletic Union (Detroit), J & D Auto (Wayne), Trading Post (Plymouth), Garden City Sporting Goods (Garden City), along with the Stingers and the host, Big Bill's.

Competition will get underway Saturday morning at 9 a.m., with games continuing through the evening. Sunday there will be six teams left out of the 16 to determine the eventual champ.

Though the Stingers are considered a serious threat and one of the top contenders, the tournament's defending champ is the Athletic Union of Detroit.

Meanwhile, Joe Thomas pounded out 20 hits and crushed Crabbie Joe's 18-9 to stay undefeated in the Westland Red Division men's softball league. It was Thomas's fifth consecutive victory while Joe's have lost two in five starts.

The losers took the initiative as they leaped on winning pitcher Joe Colley for four runs in the first inning and three more in the second, but their 7-4 lead vanished in the fifth when Thomas' erupted for seven runs then added six more off of losing pitcher Ron Rosenberg.

Rosenberg gave up a homer and single to Tom Demara while Jim Ferrari sliced three doubles and a couple of singles for three runs batted in for the winners. Cooley helped his cause with a pair of singles and a triple.

Tom Doupe, Bob Mink and Greg Guinot each checked in with two hits for the losers.

In other Red Division action, third place Who Cares fattened its record to 3-1 at the expense of Jamie's 13-5. Scoring in the late innings, the winners managed to overcome a 5-3 deficit. Who Cares tied the game at 5-all in the fifth, the exploded for four runs in the sixth and seventh frames.

Ron Paulos knocked in two runs with three singles, while mates Al Clark and winning pitcher Ted Rize each had two runs.

Loser Manny Gonzales gave up a total of 22 hits while Mickey Cawatzka accounted for three singles and scored three times for the losers. Mark Neracher had the lone homer of the game and mate Mike Hall rapped two singles.

A three-run top of the sixth rally wasn't enough for seventh place Westside Rustproofing which lost a 14-13 thriller to All-Star Sports. The victory enabled the Westsiders to move into a three-way tie for fourth place.

Dean Morrison survived an 18-hit Westside barrage which included four hits by Dave Mills who tripled and drove in three runs, four hits by

Vicky Ridge wins senior golf tourney

Mrs. Vicky Ridge of Romulus has enjoyed playing golf for "more years than I wish to admit."

But, last week, she won her first Michigan Senior Women's Golf Association tournament.

Competing at Plum Hollow in Southfield, Mrs. Ridge shot a 106 for 18 holes and her 32 stroke handicap provided her with the low net of the tournament, a par 72.

"This is the first time I have won the low net," Mrs. Ridge said, "though I have played in the tournament many times. And I'm only telling you this because I would like to see more senior citizens, especially women, take up golfing."

Along with her name being engraved upon a silver plaque on a travelling trophy, Mrs. Ridge said she was also awarded a pewter coffee server.

Living atop of Canton golf league isn't so hot, either

Bill Lindley and Bruce Watt, who have been enjoying the view from the top of the Canton Recreation Golf League standings, learned the hard way that it isn't always safe to be on top.

The rest of the field is usually shooting for the front-runners and last week Glenn Ponte and Don Ponte, who are seated ninth in the standings, shot down the leaders which enabled Merph Eminger and Charlie Sheets to move into a two-way tie with the previously undisputed leaders.

Watts and Lindley now have 25½ points while Eminger and Sheets, thanks to a five point sweep over Sam Natoli and John Mogelnicki also have compiled 25½ points after six weeks of competition.

Paul Oberhlemman shot the first par round of the year as he carded a pair of birdies and finished with an impressive 36 for nine holes at Fellows Creek.

Gordon Lapierre turned in a 38, while Tony Valenti was one stroke back for the top games of the week.

Here are the standings after six weeks: Watts and Lindley - 25½; Eminger and Sheets - 25½; Kraft and Valenti - 22; Argonis and Lapierre - 21; Oberhlemman and Mattingly - 20; Koers and Koers - 19; Gabriel and Horrey - 17½; Ryan and White - 17½; Ponte and Ponte - 16; Hoffman and Yuchas - 14½; Canning and Young - 14; Rehberg and Riggs - 13; Stuebben and Seewald - 13; Pietryka and Slad - 11½; Brock and Taylor - 10½; Lally and Lyndrup - 10½; Pitz and Glover - 9½; Thomas and Lawrence - 9; Natoli and Mogelnicki - 5; and McGee and Johnson - 3½.

Last week's results were: Koers and Koers - 3½; Gabriel and Horrey - 1½; Sheets and Eminger 5, Natoli and Mogelnicki - 0; Brock and Taylor - 5, Canning and Young 0; Ponte and Ponte - 3½; Watt and Lindley - 1½; Valenti and Kraft - 3; Johnson and McGee - 2; Argonis and Lapierre - 5; Thomas and Lawrence - 0; Oberhlemman and Mattingly - 4½; Rehberg and Riggs ½; Lally and Lyndrup - 5, Pitz and Glover - 0; Stuebben and Seewald - 5, Slad and Pietryka - 0.

to bring their own uniforms, gloves and shoes. The Reds will furnish all other equipment.

In addition, each player will be responsible for his traveling and living expenses, if any, unless signed to a contract with the Cincinnati Reds organization.

Players must be 16 years of age to be eligible to participate and all American Legion players must bring written permission from their Post Commander of Legion coach in order to try out.

Several of the players now playing baseball in the Major Leagues today were first seen at tryout camps such as this one and any boy seriously interested in playing professional baseball someday should make every effort to attend this camp.

Reds hold baseball tryouts at Ford Field

A tryout camp for baseball players will be conducted by the Cincinnati Reds on Friday, June 30th at the Henry Ford Baseball Field in Livonia.

The field is located on Farmington Rd., just north of Schoolcraft.

The camp is open to all boys from 16 to 22 years of age. High school sophomore and juniors are especially urged to attend.

Reds scouting supervisor, Gene Bennett, will be in charge of the workouts which is scheduled to start promptly at 10 a.m. Bennett will be assisted by Reds scouts Fred Hayes, Ted Cranis, Jim Terry, Jay Scowden, Gil Georger, Glenn Georger, Glenn Scala, Bruce DeLeon and Herm Kander.

All eligible players are requested

The exhaust system in an automobile must live in an atmosphere of hot, corrosive gases, water, mud, snow, melting chemicals, and flying rocks and other debris. In short, the environment is rather hostile. But, despite this environment, the parts of the exhaust system have been engineered to last for thousands of miles. The system requires no routine maintenance but should be inspected at regular intervals. Another important point to bear in mind is that exhaust gases contain carbon monoxide gases, which are highly toxic. Small doses cause sleepiness or nausea, and larger doses are fatal. Therefore, if there is a hole in the muffler, the additional noise is a warning to you that exhaust gases are leaking. If this happens, get your car to the serviceman post haste for an inspection visit.

Bring your car to KOSIN'S AUTO PARTS, 26831 Michigan Ave., Inkster, for expert advice and for the parts and materials you need! Capture national recognition

Winekoff brothers sparkle on mats

Belleville's Winekoff brothers — Carl and Rick — are emerging as two of the finest young wrestlers in the country.

Selected as All-Area candidates last season, both Carl and Rick have earned accolades on the national wrestling scene.

Carl, who will be a senior this year at Belleville High, last week competed in the Eastern Zone National Freestyle Wrestling Championships and finished second in the 143-pound class.

After winning five decisions, he ran up against the world school-age champ, Tony Dieffer of Pennsylvania and lost a hard-fought 4-1 verdict.

However, Winekoff's second place performance qualified him to join a group of elite young wrestlers at the Olympics Development National Training Camp which will be held at Squaw Valley, California.

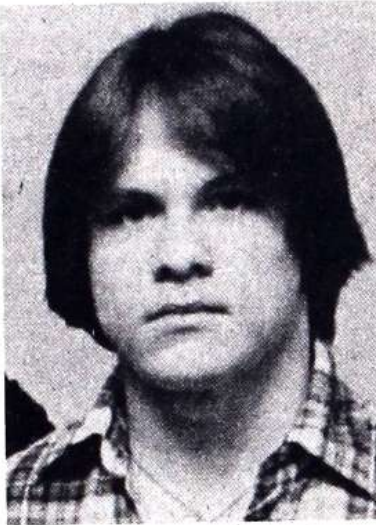

From Squaw Valley, a group of wrestlers will be picked to advance to the Colorado Springs Tournament, a tournament which many of the United States Olympics wrestling team members are selected.

Meanwhile, Rick, Carl's younger brother, captured the gold medal at the 160½ and has qualified for the Grand Nationals which will be conducted in Lincoln, Nebraska.

Rick defeated Steve Puretti of New Jersey for the championship.

Paul Mirandi and two hits by Larry Griffin.

Andy Brassfield, the losing hurler, gave up an over-the-fence homer to Tom Gerken who also doubled, and two hits, including a circuit clout to Pat Dunn. Ken Briges swatted a pair of singles.

A four-run surge in the top of the seventh lifted Playmate Lounge to a narrow 10-8 victory over Macerie's Produce. Winning pitcher Jim Graham gave up 20 hits, one more than loser Tony Kierschke.

Dean Minton, Rick Morphene and Arnie Winters each had three hits for the winners, while Steve Perrie led the losers' assault with four hits, including a double and two RBIs. Ken Forbes and Eric Radcliffe also checked in with three hits for Macerie's.

Over in the White Division, Crestwood Dodge throttled The Family 8-1 behind Paul Campbell's seven-hit pitching to remain in command of the division.

The undefeated Dodge boys have won five in a row, but still have once-beaten Johnny's Union 76, Westland Florist and McCurdy's Optical to worry about — all are ready to challenge for the championship.

Campbell got the support of his teammates who touched loser Stan Mars for 14 hits, including a homer and double by Randy Temple. Rick Oriantine and Ed Schewizer both turned in with three hits.

John Bullard had a couple of singles for The Family and Ed Protar's base hit produced the lone run for the team.

Westland Florist remained in the chase with an impressive 24-7 victory over M & R Collision as Roger Fielder slammed a homer and a pair of doubles which helped put three Westland runs on the scoreboard. Teammates Jim Mijal and Larry Kovacs chipped in with four and three hits, respectively.

Mijal, the winner, was tagged for 14 hits — two each by Gary Rygielwicz, Dave Krakowiak and Mike Rotter. Losing hurler Don Todd gave up a total of 24 hits.

Striking for three runs in the first and third innings, Johnnie's Union 76 taught the Pedagogues a lesson 10-3 in their first meeting of the season. Don Yanick chalked up the victory via a nine-hitter, giving up a pair of singles and an RBI to Dan Diadium, Sr., and run-scoring base hits to Dan Diadium Jr., and Bill Kelly.

Chuck Copland led the attack on losing pitcher Pat Nally. Copland had four hits, including two doubles and two RBIs. Rich Bergerson and Monty Gabiel split four singles between them.

McCurdy Optical made it three out of four and it rapped out 21 hits en route to a 13-3 victory over Berry's Appliance. John Johnson, Roy Todd and Doug Courtes who had two doubles and two RBIs, led McCurdy's at the plate with three hits apiece.

Tom Sykes homered off of winning pitcher Ed Spontack while Daryl Perkins drove one run with his lone hit, a single. Mike Terry doubled for the losers and scored the other run.

Scoring six runs in the first three innings, league-leading J.C. Gold Chips overpowered the Court Jesters 15-3 for their fourth victory against no losses in the Community Organizational League.

The Jesters scored all three of their runs in the bottom of the fourth and had four hits off of winning pitcher Mike Kehrner who gave up a two-run double to Mike Kramer along with run-scoring singles to Les Warden and Dennis Fassett.

Loser Gene Demaren was tagged for a total of 18 hits with Dave Miller blasting a homer and two doubles which helped chase home four runs. Jerry Reynolds latched on to three singles and Marv Solean laced three hits and scored three times.

The Dad's Club rallied for four runs in the top of the seventh to put down the JC Blue Chips 5-3 in one of the more exciting matchups in the Organizational league. The Blue Chips put three runs on the board in the opening inning, then winning pitcher Rick Kevnick settled down and blanked his rivals the rest of the way.

Loser Chuck Pickering gave up a three-run homer to Jim Austin which was the difference in the game. He also was tagged for a pair of singles and an RBI by Mark Sigler while Jim Blackburn's single ignited the rally.

George Blom, had three hits for the losers and two RBIs, while Chuck Menzes and Mike Muskett chipped in two and one, respectively.

Hepitched a 10 hitter as Gerry Davis drove in the winning run to help his own cause.

Bob Billing, the loser, gave up a homer to Bill Rohn who also singled. Bob Baker, Pete Martin and Davis each had two hits for the game.

Extra Point Bar continued to lead the Over 35 group as it turned back Taste Freeze 15-3 for its fifth consecutive victory. Chums and Jakes also remained undefeated as it chalked up No. 4 at the expense of Telelyne 8-4 and Elaise Bar edged Jack's in a slugfest 19-16.

The last hurrah

The high school baseball season officially closed with the unveiling of The Associated Newspapers' All-Area team. And it was action like that above — the Plymouth Canton vs. Flint Southwestern semi-final Class A state playoff which typified the excellent quality of prep baseball played in and around the ANP circuit. The ANP sports staff wishes to congratulate all of the ball players and the coaches for their cooperation throughout the past season for, without you, there would be no season at the ANP.

Crissey is coach of year

Chiefs would have gone on to win the state title.

For his achievements on the diamond and his work with the young athletes, The Associated Newspapers are honored to name Fred Crissey as our selection of "The Coach of the Year."

Crissey, who lettered in basketball, baseball and football at Highland Park's St. Benedictine, is married to Janice and the couple have seven children.

Not enough for a baseball team, but as Fred pointed out: "We have a pretty good basketball team."

And with that kind of philosophy about life, the Crisseys are definitely winners.

Scarpace earns CMU letter

Among the 16 members of the 1978 Western Michigan University baseball squad who were awarded varsity letters is Ken Scarpace, a former All-Area ball player.

Scarpace, a Livonia

Franklin graduate, played regularly as the WMU's centerfielder. The 18-year-old freshman resides in Westland.

Coach Fred Decker's squad compiled a 27-15-1 over-all record and finished second in the Mid-American Conference with a 10-4 record. It was the school's highest league finish and victory total since the 1969 Bronco club turned in 28 victories and ranked second in MAC standings.

5 teams in pursuit of Wayne softball title

Behind Curt Wiitanen's seven-hitter, the Broncos bushwacked league-leading Burghuff Bar 7-6 to toss the Wayne Class A men's softball title chase into a five-team affair.

Only Roeder's Tropicals appears to be out of the title picture while the four others - Burghuff, Garden City Sports, Das Hofbrauhaus and Jim Hangar's—continue to maneuver for the top spot.

Despite the Burghuff loss, it still has a slim lead over the rest of the field. The pacesetters are 8-4 on the season, while the next closest to the top team is Garden City Sports which is sporting a 7-3 mark.

Shut off by Wiitanen the first four innings, Burghuff erupted for four runs in the fifth inning to make it a 7-4 ball game and came up with two runs in the top of the seventh just one short of tying it up.

Fred Arrington's sacrifice fly in the fourth drove in what proved to be the winning run. Teammate Monty Gobel homered off of losing pitcher Ron Hays who also served up two hits to Dennis Kempaion, Dave Gipson and Chris Drake.

Norm Beasley and Doug Reid hammered homers off of Wiitanen. Earlier in the week Burghuff broke a 4-all knot in the top of the fourth with four runs and went on to beat Jim's Hangar's 12-7.

Mike Plagens laced three singles and drove in two runs for the winners, while Dean Minton whacked a pair of doubles and a single and also had 3 RBIs.

Hays, the winning hurler, was tagged for 10 hits - two apiece by Stan Johnson and Keith Drake. John Auer took the loss. He gave up 14 hits and was relieved in the seventh by Fullerton who was tagged for four hits.

The victory ended a two-game Burghuff losing streak.

It's 'Play Ball' in junior leagues

They started swinging baseball bats in the Inkster Junior Baseball Leagues.

In the Class F opener, the Scorpions fought back from an early 2-run deficit to rip the Warriors 11-4. The losers drew first blood, scoring two runs in the opening inning thanks to doubles by Dan Sackney and Glen Blecher.

However, in the fifth the Scorpions erupted for five runs as Anthony Armstrong, Tony Goldson and Damone Elba came through with timely hitting.

The Scorpions scored four more runs in the sixth on back-to-back doubles by Wells and Goldson to put the game out of reach.

The Warriors came back in the seventh but with too little, too late.

In other Class F action, the Raiders, paced by Tom McCollum and Ken Murphy, buried the Boys Club Braves 16-2.

The Scorpions lost a thriller, 13-12 to the Colts who established themselves as the team to beat as Phil Hoilfield and Darin Wesley keyed the Colts' battery with three hits apiece.

Goldson also laced three safeties for the losers.

Meanwhile, over in Class E, the Pirates passed their initial test by turning back the Warriors 8-3 behind Tony Brisker and Mark Cabanaw's hitting and pitching.

Cabanaw scattered five hits to chalk up the victory.

In the other Class E confrontation, the Pirates upped their record to 2-0 at the expense of the Falcons 7-2.

In softball action, both the Class A and Class B divisional title races are tight. In "A", Logan's Party Store appears to have the inside track to the title as it has compiled an untainted 5-0 record. But its narrow 9-8 triumph over New Place Lounge is evidence that they could stumble if the breaks don't go with them.

Remaining a game out of first are Splibs and Metro GMC. The Splibs squashed a highly-touted Bingo Long team 14-6, while Metro GMC remained in the title chase with a close 6-4 victory over Sports Page Lounge.

Also, Langley's edged Plato's Place 3-2, and the Doors "R" Us won its first game by outslugging the Rangers 29-17.

In Class B, three teams are logjammed at the top of the standings thanks to an unexpected series of upsets that shook up the league last week.

After winning their initial contests of the week, the undefeated co-leaders, the Refugees and Inkster Pharmacy fell upon hard times and dropped their first games.

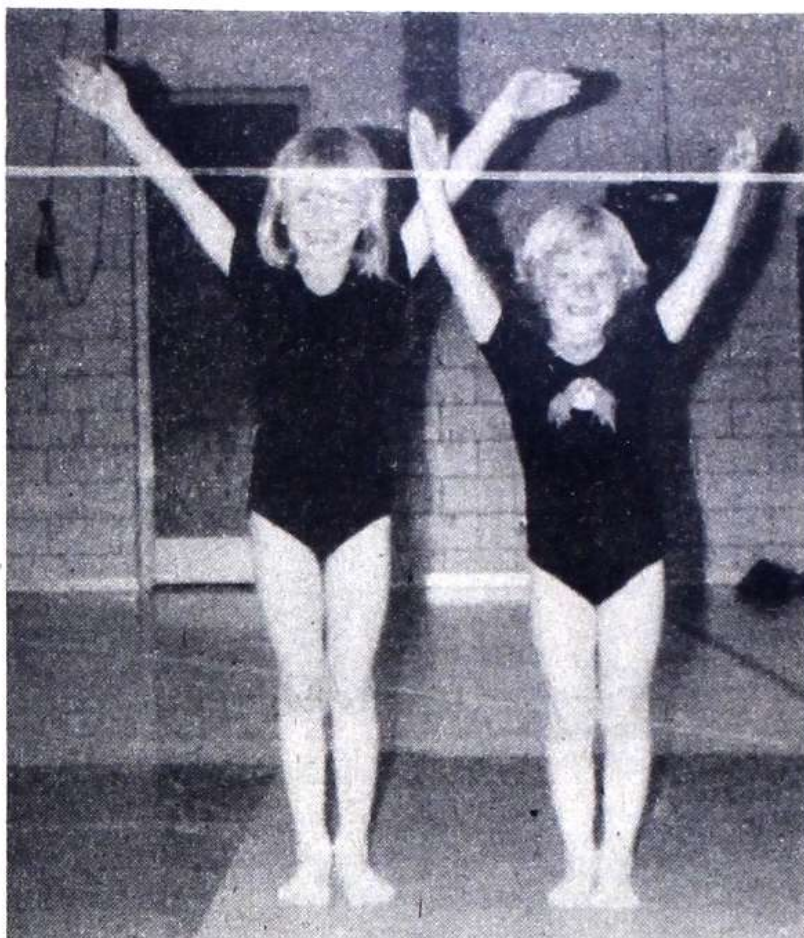

The Refugees were beaten in the late innings 14-10 by a strong B & B Team, while Inkster was burned by the Stooges who emerged atop of a close 14-12 margin. Other scores last week were: the Stooges 4, E-Z Sliders 3; B & B 6, Keggers 5, while the Refugees 5, SEMTA 4; Inkster Pharmacy 12, Crown Furniture 8; and Fuel Pump Lounge 12, E-Z Sliders 11.

Garden City kept close on the heels of the leaders with a come-from-behind 6-4 victory over Das Hofbrauhaus who tallied twice in the first inning but fell behind 3-2 when Garden City struck for a pair of runs in the third inning.

Bob Hobbs gave losing pitcher Dennis Cowell problems as he latched on to a couple of doubles. Ron Miller and Tony Haag chipped in with two hits each.

Joe Kadlec, who served up a total of 11 hits, was tagged for two doubles by Gary Schewe and two singles by Jim Hobbs.

Garden City Sports lost ground on the pacesetters when it lost a thriller 6-5 to Jim Hangar's. The losers spotted Jim's six runs in the first two runs and unsuccessfully tried to get them back. Garden City made the thumbs down on three other proposals that would save competitive athletics and other extra curricular activities.

If the board follows through with its threats of cutbacks and cancelling athletics, the Suburban 8 could become the Suburban 5 this fall. With Redford Union defecting to the Northwest Suburban Conference, that would leave Belleville, Plymouth Salem, Trenton, Allen Park and Livonia Bentley in the league.

Maybe Romulus, left homeless when the Twin-Valley dissolved several years ago, could find its way into the league —but don't count on it.

Romulus's new athletic director Bill Hardy has been busy interviewing candidates for the head football coaching job and at present the field has been narrowed down to four.

The vacancy was created when Tom Baldwin resigned. Because voters in that school district failed to approve a millage levy in time, Romulus didn't have a football season a year ago, but with Hardy at the helm of the athletic program you can bet that the Eagles will have a strong football program. Bill is a former football coach and was an assistant grid coach at Grand Valley.

And Rod Hanna, who is busy thinking about basketball, also feels that Johnny Long will make it as a Piston.

Hanna, who is the head cage coach at Romulus, said, "that there are, only a few players as deadly as Long is from the corner. Some say that John won't make it in the pros because of his height (he's 6'5"), but that's what they have been saying all along. And John has proven them wrong — he was a unanimous all-stater when he played here, helped turn the basketball program around at the University of Detroit when few said he could play major college ball and now I'm sure he's going to be an asset to the Pistons."

Crissey and the Chiefs head for Montreal

About the time you get this edition at your doorsteps, Fred Crissey, our Coach of the Year in baseball, will be readying his team for the Montreal Invitational.

Crissey is taking a group of Canton players, including James Dawson and Russ Mandle, to Canada to play in the invitational which will include representatives from Quebec, Ontario and Connecticut. The players are in the 17 and under age group.

"I feel it is really a honor to be represented in an international baseball tournament," said Crissey before leaving Tuesday on the long trek to the northeast.

"We're really excited that they have invited us to be one of the teams —it means that someone knows about our program and respects it."

Crissey coaches Mickey Mantle and Babe Ruth teams after the regular high school season. His prep team had accumulated a 26-5 record.

Crissey said that his team will also include Cantonites Dave Weise, Al Lipinski and Steve Gray along with two players who are non-residents - Chris Mallow, the next University of Detroit High baseball captain and Matt Etienne, a southpaw who plays for rival, Plymouth Salem, (Crissey needed a lefthander and Etienne fits the bill perfectly).

The local group will tour Montreal on Friday and be guests of the city at the Expos-St. Louis Cards' game Friday evening. They'll play a doubleheader Saturday and the winner will compete for the championship on Sunday.

A group of parents who will help make up a five-van caravan will accompany the young players. Transportation must be provided by the local teams but the host city will pick up the tab for the accommodations and food.

Don't Postpone a Home of Your Own.

Prices are going up, real estate taxes are going up, energy costs are going up. Some people think that this is a bad time to buy homes.

Those people are wrong. Because prices, taxes and energy costs are going up, this is a good time to buy.

All over America, enterprising people are making home ownership happen. There's no better time than now to be one of them. Call a REALTOR® today.
